PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)

—Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons aboard.

The West Coast Airlines DC-9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 27 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

THOUGHT HE WAS HIGHER

The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet. He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope. That meant it crashed, but at the 4,000-foot level instead of the 12,000 or 9,000 he was supposed to be.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC-9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest. Thirteen passengers were killed, five crew members. The plane has a seating capacity of 75.

SOVIET UNION has told the U.S. it will soon release peace corpsman Thomas R. Dawson, who has been in custody since Sept. 11 when border guards arrested him as he waded across a small stream on the border between Russia and Iran near Baku.

Denis Trial Postponed

OTTAWA (CP)—The second trial of Raymond Denis was postponed today until February.

The 33-year-old Denis, former executive assistant to the federal immigration minister, is charged with unlawfully and corruptly offering a sum of money to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne to induce the latter not to oppose bail for narcotics trafficker Lucien Rivard in July, 1964.

The first trial ended in a declared mistrial March 30.

PROTEST ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

Angry Unionists Jeer at Wilson

Party Meeting Opens at Resort

BRIGHTON, England (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson, looking angry and flustered, was jeered, booed and shouted outside his Labor Party annual conference today by militant automotive workers protesting the government's economic squeeze that has thrown thousands out of jobs.

THREATENED

Bodyguard Bolstered For Parley

BRIGHTON (Reuters)—Unprecedented security measures were in effect today for Prime Minister Wilson as the annual conference of his ruling Labor party opened here.

Wilson's seafront hotel was ringed by 200 police, 70 of them guarding the entrance shoulder-to-shoulder, and the prime minister's personal bodyguard was bolstered to 10 from two.

Earlier, well-informed sources said there was an anonymous warning of an attack on Wilson, but police refused to comment on this report. But sources said the guard was strengthened before the warning, following a recent fire in a hotel room close to Wilson's suite in Liverpool.

A rowdy demonstration by leftist students broke out Sunday during a church service in which Wilson was prevented from reading a passage in the Bible.

Wilson sat down after a carefully organized demonstration erupted with shouts of "hypocrite," "murderer" and "Viet Nam."

Police dragged and carried away 25 students while some members of the congregation angrily yanked at the hair of girls being hauled out of the church.

Later in the afternoon, marchers chanting slogans and carrying banners paraded past Wilson's hotel protesting against growing unemployment and Viet Nam.

Student Walks Out

LADYSMITH — A 16-year-old student, missing since Sunday, walked safe and sound out of the woods that held him overnight, near noon today.

William Jackson said he had been into Silver Lake and had been caught by the dark.

More than 1,000 demonstrators converged on this south coast resort from the big automobile manufacturing plants at Oxford, Coventry and Dagenham as the Labor Party's conference opened.

They marched along the seafront to the conference hall but were not allowed in. Then they moved to Wilson's hotel nearby where they shouted anti-government slogans.

DISPERSED BY RAIN

Immediately after the morning conference session a small delegation was allowed in to see Labor Party secretary general Len Williams. The mass of demonstrators was driven away by a drenching rain squall.

But an hour later the original demonstrators, swollen by hundreds of new arrivals, massed again outside the prime minister's seafront hotel, shouting for him and Labor Minister Ray Gunter to come out.

"We want Harold," the demonstrators yelled. "Come out and face the workers whose votes put you in power."

One cheerleader kept yelling "Ramsay MacDonald, out, out, out." This was a reference to former Laborite Premier Ramsay MacDonald, during whose term of office in 1931 Britain suffered the gravest economic crisis in its history.

The crowd sang "Old Ray Gunter wants a rope around his neck" to the tune of the Battle Hymn of the Republic. The demonstrators pressed right up to the hotel steps where they were held back by strong police cordons.

HELD UP HANDS

After 45 minutes of noise and chanting, Wilson appeared suddenly on the steps surrounded by security men. His appearance touched off a new uproar of booing and catcalling. Wilson looked flustered and held up his hands for silence but was ignored by the demonstrators.

He then grabbed a bullhorn from one of the demonstration leaders and appealed repeatedly for quiet, helped by some of the leaders of the workers. Finally he succeeded in making himself heard enough to say he would see a small delegation. He then went back into the hotel with three of the workers' leaders to hear their protests.

The demonstrations marked the beginning of a showdown week during which Wilson also faced bitter revolts on the conference floor aimed primarily against the Labor government's prices-and-incomes policies and its support for the United States in Viet Nam.

MAJOR ADDRESS

Wilson himself was scheduled to deliver a major policy address to the conference Tuesday morning. In it he was expected to deal not only with the economic crisis but also with government policy on Viet Nam, Rhodesia and defence east of Suez.

L.A. 8-5 FAVORITES TO WIN WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Los Angeles Dodgers were made 8-to-5 favorites today to beat Baltimore Orioles in the world series starting Wednesday. If Don Drysdale pitches the opening game, the Dodgers will be 7-to-5 favorites for that game against any Baltimore pitcher. See details Page 12.

AT U.S. PACKING PLANT

Non-Strikers Stoned by Mob

HARLAN, Iowa (UPI)—A mob of strikers invaded a packing plant today and drove non-striking workers from the building with bricks, rocks and gunfire, police said.

At least four persons suffered minor injuries in the clash between 80 and 90 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA) and the non-striking workers at the western Iowa Pork Co. plant.

The violence subsided after Judge Bennett Cullison, who had issued an order restricting the number of pickets at the strike-bound plant, arrived on the scene.

Elvin Troll, president of the UPWA Local 1225, said the violence was triggered by the arrival Sunday night of 17 Mexican workers.

"I had our people under control until then, but I couldn't control them after that," he said.

Plant manager Ed Hannan said the workers of Mexican descent were from Los Angeles and were "in a training program to help them develop skills."

WALL ST. SLUGGED

Wall Street's Dow Jones index of 30 blue chip industrial stocks fell 16.37 points near the close of trading today to rest at 757.55.

It was one of the largest drops in the past three years.

An early morning rally was quickly wiped out and by noon the index was down 12 points. Then it slid another four points in 30 minutes. (See page 10.)

Political Violence Erupts in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)

—A state of emergency was declared here today following a fresh outbreak of political violence, including the bombing of a theatre which injured 13 persons.

The homemade bomb, thrown into the theatre Sunday night, followed a violent weekend of unrest in Kingston's troubled west end and adjoining areas.

A man had been killed earlier Sunday after he opened fire on police. He was shot by police and then run over by their jeep.

The military joined police today to control the area where political violence has so far resulted in six deaths and scores of injuries. Guns, knives and homemade bombs have all been used.

In announcing the state of emergency in a nationwide broadcast today, Home Affairs Minister Roy McNeill said it followed consultations with Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante and Governor-General Sir Clifford Campbell to "end this wave of lawlessness."

IBOS FLEEING NORTHERN NIGERIA

Tribal Jealousies Climax in Blood Bath

Times-News Services

Lagos — Tribal violence in northern Nigeria during the last four or five days is estimated to have cost at least 1,000 lives, reliable sources said today.

The disturbances were so widespread that it was difficult to get accurate figures, but some sources here predicted the final toll would be even higher.

Main victims were members of the Ibo tribe from southeastern Nigeria, living and working in the Moslem Hausa north. Gangs of Hausas, including mutinous troops, hunted down and killed the Ibos because of long-festering tribal suspicions and jealousies.

Today the north was generally quiet, though some looting was reported in Kano, one of the main centres of the troubles.

Mutinous troops there have returned to barracks.

A great airlift was organized to fly Ibos to safety out of the northern towns. Already 1,500 have been brought out by charter planes and Nigerian Airways and 1,000 more were expected to be flown out in the next 24 hours.

Reports reaching Lagos indicated more than 300 Ibos were slain in Kano by northern soldiers and civilians Saturday night. About 100 of them were killed as they tried to board an airliner to flee the city.

Army troops were moved into Kano from the northern capital, Kaduna, to stop the massacre. The city was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

The outbreak at Kano was one of several attacks against the Ibos in the last week. Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, governor of the eastern region, has estimated 3,000 Ibos have been slain.

Reports to Lagos indicated the fighting began at Kano International Airport when northern soldiers apparently fired on a group of Ibo refugees waiting to board a plane for Lagos.

A mob of civilians joined the soldiers and the crowd swept through nearby Sabon Gari, a section that formerly housed thousands of easterners. They also attacked Ibos waiting at the railway station.

The deep-seated hostility between the Ibos and Hausas results from both economic and military rivalries. The largely Moslem Hausa northerners accuse the Ibos of economic domination. The Ibos, generally better educated than the northerners, migrated from their region and took skilled jobs in the north.

The northerners also were angered at a coup led mostly by eastern officers last January in which Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, a northerner, was killed. An easterner, Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, took power.

Eastern tribesmen believe they were targets for revenge in a July 29 coup which overthrew Aguiyi-Ironsi. Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, a northerner, took over.

The Gowon regime currently is overseeing the drafting of a new constitution in Lagos, but some officials feel the northern-eastern rivalry may wreck the constitutional assembly and break Nigeria up into regional areas.

An estimated 60,000 Ibos have fled their homes in the north in the last two months; most of them following riots in May and August. Their departure has crippled transportation, electricity, food distribution and telephone service, all activities dominated by Ibo workers.

SIoux FALLS, S.D.—An ample body of women picketed a Sioux Falls health club Saturday, claiming they hadn't lost enough pounds for their dollars.

The women carried signs accusing the ownership of not living up to its advertising, of not producing results, and using a sliding scale for club membership fees.

One demonstrator, Mrs. Sandy Weeks, said, "We've all belonged at least two months. Do I look glamorous, trim and svelte?"

Six women paraded in front of the club for several hours before an "amicable" agreement was announced with manager Ted Cook.

During that time Cook stood toe-to-toe with the ladies arguing his firm's point of view.

One lady, waving a newspaper ad in Cook's face, asked, "Electronic stimulators, what are those?"

Cook replied, "That is a vibrator belt."

Others asked him where were the trained personnel, "Florida sun ray room," and "individual attention" which had been advertised.

Afterward Cook dismissed the matter as a minor tempest. "It's a year of protest," he said.

LONDON—An angler has admitted stocking south London ponds with four-pound roach and perch he catches in the upper reaches of the Thames, in order to enjoy children's joyous reactions when they hook a big one instead of a minnow. "To see the children's faces gives me more pleasure than catching them myself," he says.

CHESTER, England—Schoolboy Peter Vickers shook hands, 1,000 times Saturday to try to prove royalty has an easy life and admitted afterwards: "My right hand is certainly a bit tired."

Peter disputed his teacher's statement that the Queen had an onerous time on meet-the-people tours, when she might shake hands 1,000 times a day.

He decided to be king for a day. Standing on the city hall steps here, it took him 1½ hours to shake 1,000 of his townspeople's hands.

The 15 shillings ($2.25) schoolmates gave him for reaching the target will go to charity.

TACOMA — State representative Helmut Juelling is one legislator who practices the frugality he preaches. The only expenses he listed for his successful primary campaign were the filing fee and 87 cents—for the can of paint he used to change the year on campaign signs left over from the 1964 election.

WASHINGTON—Justice William O. Douglas, who aroused congressional wrath by taking his fourth wife last summer, was dropped from the green book which makes up Washington's social register.

His name was conspicuously absent when the social list of Washington—the who's who in capital social circles—came off the press this weekend.

Douglas was one of about 700 persons dropped from the 1966 edition for one reason or another—mostly because they moved out of town.

The 67-year-old Douglas was married July 15 in Los Angeles to Cathleen Curran Heffernan, 23, from Portland.

Students Tent Out In Housing Protest

VANCOUVER (CP)—About 125 students bedded down in 13 tents on the grass of the main mall Sunday night to protest the lack of sufficient housing accommodation at and near the University of British Columbia.

The campers used university washrooms and vending machines, and feasted on the cooking of home economics students.

"There are 1,200 students who want to live on campus but there is no accommodation for them," said Peter Braund, student council president.

He said more than 1,500 suites off campus have been closed since 1961 because of a city crackdown on multiple-family use of dwellings in a single-family zoning area.

"We are going before city council Tuesday to ask aldermen to relax the Point Grey zoning bylaw for the next three years until proper accommodation is made on campus."

The "tent-in" is expected to last several days.

McNamara To Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP)—Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara will go to South Viet Nam Saturday for a week-long visit to the war zone, the U.S. defense department announced today.

McNamara will confer in South Viet Nam with U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, head of the U.S. forces in that country. It is his eighth trip to Viet Nam.

While the conference was meeting today, Economic Affairs Minister Michael Stewart conferred with leaders of both industry and the trades unions on the government's decision Friday night to put teeth into its economic measures by making the six-months' freeze on wages and prices mandatory.

The decision already had touched off angry protests from unions. Former Minister of Technology Frank Cousins, leader of the 1.5 million strong Transport and General Workers Union, was expected to lead off a general onslaught against it Wednesday.

However, all indications were that the Wilson government still had enough labor union and party support to win.

Klibi made the announcement following a meeting of the cabinet and members of the political bureau of the ruling Destourian Socialist party under Bourguiba.

'DOZENS WON OVER'

Remarks Against Graham Sparks Protest Letters

By CAROL KENNEDY

LONDON (CP) — Remarks about evangelist Billy Graham made by the Archbishop of Canterbury on his Canadian tour sparked letters of protest in The Times today from churchmen and lay supporters of the Church of England.

A letter signed by Baron Luke, Labor member of Parliament Eric Fletcher—both members of the church assembly—and two London clergymen says:

"We very much regret the unrepresentative remarks made recently by the Archbishop of Canterbury about Dr. Billy Graham."

"It ought to be made clear that in saying what he did, he expressed his own opinion and his opinion certainly does not represent the mind of the Church of England."

DISLIKES EMOTIONALISM

Archbishop Ramsey was quoted in Vancouver as saying the Billy Graham type of evangelism was not the type needed today. The word required "an intellectual thoughtful approach, not bursts of emotionalism."

The Anglican Bishop of Southwark said Graham's approach may be different "but I know of dozens of people who have been won over to the Christian religion by his ministry."

Rt. Rev. A. M. Stockwood said he is not entirely happy about Graham's "theological approach, particularly his uncritical attitude toward the Bible."

Attendance at Graham's London crusade last summer totalled more than 1,000,000.

A Norfolk county vicar also writes to The Times saying as a loyal member of the Church of England he is "deeply distressed" by the archbishop's remarks.

SAYS OPINION PERSONAL

Maj.-Gen. D. J. Wilson-Hastings, an Anglican lay reader who was chairman of the last Graham crusade committee, said: "Dr. Ramsey never attended a crusade meeting so he doesn't know what went on there. He's entitled to his opinion, but when he speaks, he is supposed to speak for the church and I don't think he does."

Attendance at Graham's London

but there are hundreds of people in his diocese who are grateful for the help Graham has given them.

"Indeed, we have priests who attribute their vocation to him," the bishop added.

"I say 'undue' advisedly, as Christianity devoid of all emotion would be as dead as matrimony without romance."

Problem of 'Mini-States' Again Before UN Members

UNITED NATIONS (AP) —

The issue of whether to limit membership rights of so-called "mini-states" has arisen with the United Nations' impending admission of Botswana, Lesotho and Barbados — all under 1,000,000 in population.

The UN charter says membership is open to all peace-loving states that accept the obligations set out in it "and are able and willing to carry out these obligations."

Statesmen, diplomats and scholars have argued increasingly of late that some new countries, while willing to carry out their charter obligations, are too short of area, population and money to be able to do so.

One suggestion is that no such country should become an individual UN member but that several of them together should be given a group membership.

Another suggestion is that little countries should be admitted but that they should be denied the right to vote or else have that right limited to particular occasions when their own interests are directly involved.

Lord Caradon, British UN ambassador, asked about the problem, said:

"We'll have to think about it. It is a problem. I don't have anything more to say about it at this stage."

NONE TO TAKE STEP

But another source said "I don't think anyone would dare" propose any such limitations.

Many of the present 119 UN members themselves are lacking either in land, people or money.

Limitation of membership rights would require amendment of the charter, which now gives equal rights to all countries regardless of area, population or wealth.

Amendment of the charter requires first a two-thirds vote in the General Assembly and then ratification by two-thirds of the member countries, including the big powers, and there is doubt that small countries would vote to curtail the privileges of themselves or others in the same class.

Arabia Fears Attack By Egypt

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Saudi Arabia has set up 37 British Thunderbird missiles and a squadron of 10 jet fighters with British pilots in a rush defence program against a threat of attack by the United Arab Republic, international aircraft sources and a reliable Arab news digest said today.

The reports said the emergency program is separate from a $400,000 arms agreement signed by Saudi Arabia, Britain and the United States last year.

The extra British equipment was rushed in after a Saudi request to speed up installation of American Hawk missiles was rejected on technical grounds, the sources said.

Charles Shuttleworth, 32, of Kaitasin Road pleaded guilty in Sooke court Saturday and was remanded in custody until he appears for sentence.

He took a large trolley belonging to Kenneth Hill of Sooke which was moored at the government wharf in Sooke harbor and later ran it aground on a sandbar in the harbor.

The stranded would-be skipper was taken off the trolley by Sooke RCMP.

Favreau Takes Oath In Hospital

OTTAWA (CP) — Seven

members of the federal cabinet, one of them in hospital, were being sworn in with new powers today at ceremonies attended by Prime Minister Pearson.

Governor-General Vanier administered the oath to six ministers at Government House after meeting with Mr. Pearson for half an hour.

The deputy to the Governor-General, Chief Justice Robert Taschereau, later went to Ottawa General Hospital to administer the oath to Privy Council President Guy Favreau, who assumes the additional portfolio of registrar-general.

Mr. Favreau has been in hospital for about three weeks with pneumonia and complications. His condition was reported improving slowly.

John Turner, minister without portfolio, has been named acting registrar-general during Mr. Favreau's illness.

HURRICANE Inez ripped the roof from this church and the house next door in Jacmel, Haiti, Thursday, leaving fears that hundreds of persons were dead and thousands injured and homeless.

Inez Takes Last Swipe At Land; Hundreds Dead

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane Inez, her death toll feared to be in the hundreds, whipped Nassau with whistling gales and driving rains today and bore down on the thriving young industrial development on Grand Bahama Island.

A tornado careered out of the storm's leading edge and destroyed a cluster of fieldhands' shacks outside Nassau. A 16-month-old child was killed, three persons are missing and at least 13 others are homeless, a hospital spokesman said.

A dozen or more cobbled streets in Nassau were under two feet of water, and palm trees were blown across roads. A 100 mile an hour gust battered the airport while the centre of the storm was 100 miles away.

But barring a sudden change in course, Inez was going to spin well east of Miami and the rest of southeast Florida.

Now only a shadow of the storm that was believed to have killed hundreds in three Caribbean countries, Inez was making probably her last swipe at land.

STILL NO COUNT

But in Haiti, where she blasted bone-poor mountain villages for seven hours, she will be long remembered. Three days after her visit, there was still no count of the number dead, but some officials estimated between 500 and 1,000.

In the Dominican Republic, a U.S. naval force led by the carrier Boxer began rescue operations. The official death toll there is put at 67 dead and 25 missing while cotton, banana, coffee and sugar crops suffered $1,500,000 damage.

In Guadeloupe, the toll is 33 dead and hundreds injured.

However in Cuba, where Inez thrashed for 2½ days, the government has announced only one death and 30 injuries. The Communist party is mobilizing a force of volunteers to salvage what is left of sugar, tobacco and banana crops.

Angry Students Bayoneted

By T. JEFF WILLIAMS

JAKARTA (AP)—At least eight students were bayoneted and scores were clubbed to the ground as troops drove back 5,000 young Indonesians trying to storm President Sukarno's palace today.

(Reuters news agency said 40 students were hurt.)

Shouting that Sukarno was a Communist leader and should be brought to trial, the students broke through a cordon of troops and raced along the shaded avenue toward the palace.

With flags and banners streaming as they surged toward the palace guards, the students at first were laughing and singing, apparently thinking the palace guard would fall back.

But the combat troops in jungle camouflage charged the oncoming students, clubbing them with rifle butts and jabbing with bayonets until the youths turned and fled.

The students, shouting that the troops should be brought to trial, began flinging stones, and the soldiers threw them back. Some of the troops pulled knives as they tore into the panic-stricken students. Rifle butts cracked heads left and right.

Despite the troops' brutality, the students regrouped repeatedly and plunged toward the palace. They got no closer than 200 yards to the steel fence around it.

The students said they were prepared to bring Sukarno down.

Sukarno had flown to his mountain palace at Bogor for the weekend but did not return this morning as scheduled. He apparently was advised of the unrest by Gen. Suharto, the leader of the new government. Earlier anti-Sukarno demonstrations during the weekend were dispersed at rifle point.

Irresponsible Talk

THE ERROR IN THE LABOR union reaction to court sentences that jailed four union leaders in Vancouver lies in failing to differentiate between the original controversy with the Burnaby firm that was picketed and the court order that was violated.

The right to picket, with certain clear restrictions, is firmly established in law. Whether or not picketing should take place in any particular instance is a matter which union leaders can judge for themselves and support their opinions with action. But once a court has granted an injunction against picketing, then the matter is not merely a labor dispute any more; it becomes a question of conformity to a court order. It was at this point in the Burnaby quarrel that the union leaders departed from their strong position and attacked the whole structure of our organized society.

No section of the population can be permitted to defy the law, as represented in a court order. If such defiance is ignored, then the system of protection for all citizens which has been built up painfully over the centuries must begin to crumble. The virtue of the original cause cannot prevail over a court order, and in deliberately ignoring the injunction in Burnaby, the union leaders placed themselves in an indefensible position.

That position has been made worse by the emotional criticism of the court which has followed Mr. Justice James Macdonald's action. To describe the sentences on the legally convicted leaders as "vengeance rather than justice" is to denigrate a system of law which is the workingman's greatest protection—yet that is the phrase used by an IWA convention in Vancouver.

In supporting such language, union heads are not giving organized labor the leadership it should have in this country. It is their right—and their duty if they so see it—to strive to have laws changed. It is not in labor's interest, or in anyone's interest, to advertise defiance of the law, or to imply that the courts of this land are operated on any basis other than a determination to seek the truth and fairly apply the law.

The principle involved in the statement of a vice president of a Vancouver IWA local, that: "I will not be intimidated by courts or court action or people of your ilk when in my opinion I am morally right," could lead only to social chaos. No man who lives in our society can put himself above the laws of that society, and such an utterance as that quoted is especially unacceptable from a man who has been elected to a position of leadership over hundreds of good citizens in this province. There are legal avenues of action open to anyone who feels that he has suffered injustice, but a descent into anarchy leads nowhere.

Outward Bound

WHILE VICTORIANS PRE-pare to take a hard look at the future of the tourist industry in this area, Canadians generally should be thinking about the same subject on a broader scale.

It's a curious fact, revealed by the latest report from Ottawa, that the faster Canada builds up its tourist industry, the more Canadians travel abroad. In the first six months of this year, the statistics show, foreign visitors spent a record $250 millions in this country—a handsome addition to foreign exchange earnings. But, in the same period, Canadians outdid themselves and set another record by spending $420 millions in foreign lands—leaving the country with a deficit of $170 millions on its current account for travel. This is $170 millions which has to be made up in other ways, by selling goods and services abroad, or by importing more foreign capital.

The tourist experts are hopeful that the second half of this year will show an improvement in the balance. As Canadians have grown affluent they have tended to seek the sun and warmth during the cold weather in the early part of the year while, conversely, the influx of foreign visitors does not become large until about the end of June.

Obviously it is not desirable that Canadians should be discouraged from foreign travel. Just as obviously they should be encouraged as much as possible to spend more time travelling in their own country. But so long as the boom continues, and winter is long and cold in most parts of the country, foreign travel is likely to retain its appeal.

When Fish Come From Farms

WHEN THE NEW MALTHUS-ians discuss the problem of feeding the vastly larger populations expected to cover the earth in the next half century, they almost invariably draw attention to the increasing dependence that must be placed on sustenance from the sea. Usually the prospect is viewed as an unappetizing diet of plankton products.

It may come to that. Before it does, the experts believe, mankind will expand the fish farming now being conducted for certain species on an experimental basis.

Already farming shellfish is commercially efficient. In 1962, for instance, 70 per cent of the world harvest of oysters came from farms. Mussels are also being planted and cropped successfully. And in certain parts of Britain, promising experiments have been conducted on such varieties of free-swimming marine animals as plaice, flounders and sole.

It is the opinion of experts that for a long time to come fish farming will trail far behind present methods of hunting wild fish in the sea. But they add that farming of certain desirable species could become practicable in a decade.

Apart from shellfish, we on this part of the Pacific coast are concerned with the traditional methods of fish catching—with certain modern modifications. We are concentrating on the contentious question of geographical limits, perhaps in a way analogous to that period of open-range cattle raising that eventually yielded in most parts of the world to fenced fields and specialized breeding of heavy beef animals.

Farming of wide-ranging varieties of fish is probably something for the distant future—although authorities in Alaska a year or two ago suggested this course for Bristol Bay salmon when stocks from that area were being harvested by non-American fishermen.

Distant as the prospect seems to be, it is engaging the attention of science, and will continue to attract more attention as the search goes on for means to produce food for exploding human populations.

Adopt a Stream

KIWANIS MEETING IN Hamilton the other day looked with some favor on a proposal to have each club adopt a stream with a view to fighting water pollution.

The suggestion has double merit. In the first instance the club-men might be able to undertake physical projects that would improve certain waterways. In the second, all members would become more closely identified with the protection of pure flowing water.

WASHINGTON TALK TO ERHARD

By CHARLES BARTLETT

Blunt on Dollars, Delicate on the Bomb

A PERSISTING controversy has been enlivened by Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's visit. It centres on the questions: "How hard can the Johnson administration safely press a fragile German government?"

The fact is that U.S. officials, particularly Sec. Robert McNamara, pressed relentlessly to convince the visitors that their internal economic problems do not free them from their obligation to offset the dollar cost of garrisoning 237,000 Americans on German soil.

This was a dollars and technology issue sharpened by a lingering belief within the Pentagon that West Germany's sacrifices in the name of her own defense have been proportionately less than those of the United States. McNamara bore down on Erhard with little heed to objections by some colleagues, especially George Ball, who retired Friday as Under-Secretary of State, that the Germans deserve more considerate treatment.

But on an equally delicate point, the question of Germany's claim to a larger role in nuclear defense, the treatment was extremely thoughtful. The Germans have been fearful that President Johnson would disavow earlier American proposals to share nuclear hardware with the allies as the price of inducing the Soviets to sign a nuclear non-proliferation treaty.

Treaty Desired

This treaty would be an historic accomplishment and Mr. Johnson wants it badly. Sen. Robert Kennedy and various intellectuals berate him for not moving more decisively to obtain it before nations like India launch their own nuclear projects.

But Mr. Johnson refused, at the cost of making it improbable that the treaty can be signed this year, to press the Germans to supply the renunciation of nuclear ambitions that will satisfy the Soviets. He has left unresolved the sharp divisions within his own government on whether the pursuit of a non-proliferation treaty is more important than satisfying the Germans' wish for a larger hand in nuclear affairs.

The problem is that everyone likes the idea of halting the spread of nuclear weapons. The idea has become as hallowed as motherhood and virtue. But neither the Germans nor key American officials who believe it will be dangerous to frustrate the Germans on the nuclear question have been willing to close out the possibility that a means may evolve from the bleached bones of the MLF proposal to give the Germans a finger on the nuclear trigger.

Coinciding Interests

Mr. Johnson's delay in setting a policy exposes him to criticism but time can absolve him. Progress is being made, in the newly-formed McNamara Committee of NATO allies, toward making the Germans understand that their interests coincide almost completely with those of the United States on nuclear strategy.

Eight years ago the Chief of the American Joint Chiefs, Adm. William Radford, was able to tell his German counterparts that the nuclear deterrent would be launched immediately after the first Russian soldier put his foot on western soil. When McNamara changed this pledge to talk of a "pause" and of a period of conventional fighting before nuclear weapons would be invoked, the Germans grew suspicious that Washington would not risk nuclear warfare for the sake of Western Europe.

The McNamara Committee meetings, staged to achieve direct, spontaneous confrontations between the defense ministers of the key allies, have forced the Germans particularly to face up to the harsh realities of nuclear strategy. The key reality is that only a credible nuclear plan will serve as a deterrent in a period when the great powers have the capacity to destroy each other.

Wall and Bomb

Many Germans believed in 1962 that the Communists would not have dared to erect the Berlin Wall if the policy of "massive retaliation" had been left intact. McNamara's point, slowly put across at the consultative meetings, is that such a fear would not be credible to the Russians. The provocation of building the wall could simply not be assessed as worthy of the consequences of a nuclear exchange.

The Germans are learning in these sessions that nuclear superiority is not the complete military answer that they once believed it was. They are recognizing that the MLF proposal is an expensive gimmick which will leave them with no more absolute control over the nuclear trigger than they have already. They are securing their right to a voice in planning nuclear strategy.

Erhardt was not ready on this trip to assert that Germany requires nothing more than the consultative procedures of the McNamara Committee. He needed to be pressed on the offset dollars but all the signs raise optimism that within a year the Germans will move on their own volition to the position that will set the stage for signing the non-proliferation treaty.

FROM SAIGON

Is Hanoi Living on False Information?

MUCH that is mysterious about this war becomes easily comprehensible if you make a single, very simple assumption. You need only assume that the war planners in Hanoi are being rather persistently lied to about the true state of affairs on the fighting fronts. The intransigence, the insanely over-ambitious military planning, the seemingly genuine cockiness of the North Vietnamese leaders—all these puzzling phenomena are explained on the assumption suggested above. Furthermore, there are quantities of evidence, of many different kinds, to show that Hanoi is being lied to on an enormous scale.

Consider, to begin with, the election-time directive of the Saigon-Cholon-Gladinh Special Zone Committee, which is the Communist high command for this city and the surrounding countryside. More than one copy of this document has been picked up.

The Special Zone Committee ordered all units in its area of command, from the lowest to the highest, to make no less than three attacks before 6 a.m. on election day. An intensive and impressive effort was, therefore, feared here. But what actually resulted was almost exactly like Chinese firecrackers, noisy but harmless.

A few attacks—but very few—were certainly pressed home. But mostly it was a case of doing something devoid of risk that could be reported as an "attack," such as sneaking up to the remotest outer limits of a village and tossing a grenade into Mrs. X's vegetable patch or mining a trail leading nowhere except to Mrs. Y's fishpond.

"Firecrackers"

There were enough firecrackers to suggest that all units, from lowest to highest, were indeed able to report three "attacks" as duly delivered on schedule. The Special Zone Committee, one may be sure, then sent a report on "surging struggle" throughout their area to COSVIN, the Communist high command for all South Viet Nam. Yet behind this report lay nothing but Chinese firecrackers, plus the demoralization and-or intimidation that prevented almost all the local VC from making serious attacks.

Another good, more purely military case was an ambush of a battalion of the U.S. First Infantry Division on Route 13 last summer by a regiment of the VC 9th Division. The Americans lost 30 men killed, 60 wounded and two armored personnel carriers, and the enemy left over 200 dead on the battlefield. "Liberation Radio" then claimed over 40 APCs and five tanks destroyed and an entire American battalion "wiped out."

That was just about what that regimental commander would have had to claim in order to justify his own losses, "was the comment of the shrewd

Letters

Great Idea

I thought the idea in the letter by Mrs. Brazil of September 27, was great. Wouldn't it just be the very thing for a great many older folk, to let them get out more? Let's hope a couple of hundred of us write the bus company and find out what can be done. The larger stores would surely make a lot from the idea too. They can't be dumb in Calgary.

One dollar for ten trips would be nice. —Mrs. L. Rennie, 2424 Central.

Waste Through Pollution

So now they are after our water! The Democratic Senator for Utah, Frank E. Moss, has doubts in his mind about "the right of one section of a continent to waste water—to allow vast quantities of it to run to the sea unused."

I, too, have doubts in my mind—doubts as to one country's right to pollute its own waters and then covet those of another nation.

As a young Canadian who has a stake in this country, I must protest the thoughts of selling our water to the U.S. We can not allow any more of our resources to fall under foreign control. If this sort of thing proceeds any further we are lost.

I think Senator Moss should be less concerned about the "waste" of Canadian water, and pay more attention to solving pollution in his own country. —John M. Bartanus, West Coast Road.

Not Very Hard Workers

I notice in one of the papers that the top Conservatives of British Columbia are backing Mr. Camp's stand on Mr. Diefenbaker. Who are these top Conservatives? Not very hard workers for their party when they couldn't elect a man to stand in Vancouver or Victoria constituencies!

I know many good Conservatives in B.C. and they are on Mr. Diefenbaker's side.—Olive Dettlor Wilson, 3065 Harriet.

Unfortunate Criticism

It is most unfortunate that the Archbishop finds it necessary to make derogatory statements in regard to the Billy Graham Crusade. In doing so he is patently defeating his own purpose of advancing ecumenism among Christian people. Ecumenism cannot be only for Anglican and Roman Catholic, with perhaps Methodists in England and United Church in Canada. It must embrace all Christian faiths to be effective and to fulfil the word of Jesus Christ who prayed on the night of his betrayal "That all might be one, as He and His Father were one."

The Archbishop of York, Dr. Donald Coggan, spoke from the platform of the London Crusade on June 18 as follows, and I quote from Decision Magazine October 1966:

"Dr. Donald Coggan, Archbishop of York, told us tonight at Earls Court, 'I am very glad to be associated with telling the good news of Jesus Christ in this crusade, and I assure you of the prayers of thousands of Christians, including those in the north country from which I come.' Later he remarked, 'Our country needs the disturbing voice of a prophet.'"

"Dr. Graham has been a prophet to us, warning us and recalling us, and we are greatly thankful for his coming and his message. Attendance that night 29,700. Came forward 1,112."

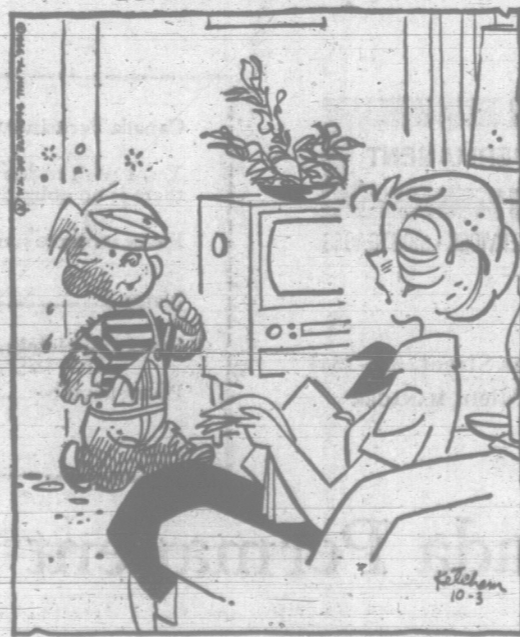

Other bishops were on the platform and gave the blessing of the Church of England, including the Bishop of Coventry.—W. E. Bowen, 900 Forshaw.

Invitation to Depression

I think it high time for the federal government to follow the example of the British government and freeze all wages and prices forthwith. It is very certain that unless those crazy strikes for huge additions to the present wages are disallowed throughout B.C. and Canada, we shall see another depression equal to the one in the 1930s.—"British Columbian"

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times of Oct. 3, 1966:

The gambling question was raised again last night at a meeting of the Citizens' League. Mayor Morley said the disreputable characters seen about town lately had been attracted here by the recent fair. He said that unprepossessing kind of crowd always hung around such an exhibition. Therefore he believed the deterioration in the moral tone of the town had nothing to do with gambling. He suggested however, that gambling itself could well be eradicated if dice-games could be prohibited from cigar stores and saloons.

A Grand Evening With 'The Chief'

By RICHARD J. NEEDHAM
The Globe and Mail

I am still in a daze (said the man at the bar) from that utterly incredible evening in the Earlscourt Club. That's why I'm here swilling Bolshoi vodka, an authoritative notation of which it's said that after one drink, you announce capitalism is no damn good; after two, you proclaim your intention of burying the capitalists; after three, you put a babushka over your head and go out to buy some capitalist wheat.

The Earlscourt Club — do you know it? It's in the heart of Toronto (assuming Toronto has a heart) and is frequented by business typhoons, financial maggots and political backroom boys. Like every decent Toronto club, it strictly excludes those filthy, smelly, ignorant, immoral women; and thus provides the married members with a sanctuary from their filthy, smelly, ignorant, immoral wives.

The Great Man

I'm a Bory, always have been, so naturally I went along to see the great man and, if possible, touch the hem of his garment. There was a huge crowd of Bory MPs, Bory MLAs, and officials of various Bory organizations, averaging in age I'd say about 90. A swinging scene, though I don't think the dignity of the club was helped very much by the wheelchair races.

While we waited for the Chief to arrive, we drank Seagram's Crown Royal and nibbled smoked oysters and talked about the terrible poverty problem here in Canada. Charlie Chaigning, Minister of Miseducation up at Queen's Park, gave us an interesting off-the-cuff talk on why high school students with hair on their heads should be sent to Guelph Deformatory, and Arthur Wishy was shown the best way to hide under the bed. We swapped memories of the Crimean war, the hard-fought Nova Scotia campaign of 1874, and the gallant struggle of Toronto's Bories to prevent the street cars from running on Sunday.

But mostly we talked of the Chief — about the time he walked across Lake Ontario to Oswego, N.Y.; about the time he changed the wine into water; about the miracle of the loaves and knishes. We wondered how he would arrive at the meeting — in a sedan

Famous Last Words

(1764-1793)

After the fall of Robespierre, the most powerful leader of the French Revolution, his ruthless henchman, St. Just, approached another deputy, Lebas, imploring him to kill him. "Fool!" said Lebas, "I have more important things to do!" Drawing his pistol, he shot himself.

Role of Judges Examined In Settling Labor Disputes

By DOUGLAS FISHER and HARRY S. CROWE

(Mr. Crowe is associate professor of history at Atkinson College, York University. Mr. Fisher, a former NDP MP, is a lecturer in Canadian government at Carleton University.)

What is the role of judges in labor disputes? What should be their role? These questions are prompted by a letter in August from federal Justice Minister Lucien Cardin advising that the consent of the Governor-in-Council (for practical purposes the federal minister of justice) must be obtained before a judge undertakes a duty other than in his normal judicial capacity. The letter also said that such consent will not be given unless proposed non-judicial work would not hinder the judge's performance of his normal duties.

Since Mr. Cardin's letter was revealed a number of statements have appeared in the press from management spokesmen, from labor spokesmen, and from some of the judges who have specialized in labor disputes, for this is the principal extra-curricular activity to which the instructions would apply.

It seems to be agreed that the mechanics of investigation and supervision would have the effect of seriously reducing the role of judges as conciliators and arbitrators. Management spokesmen have deplored it; union spokesmen have mainly welcomed it and have urged the establishment of panels of conciliators and of arbitrators as in the United States and most other countries.

There is a very large and rapidly increasing amount of conciliation and arbitration which must be performed or industrial relations across the land would very quickly descend into chaos. Most of this is performed by judges and, moreover, most of it is done by a small number of them. For example, in Nova Scotia three judges, and in Ontario six or seven county court judges handle the bulk of the work.

Why judges, and why so few of them? The answer to this question is quite distinct from any objective consideration of the suitability of chair, carried by four husky young Senators; or (like Cleopatra) rolled up in a carpet; or — (as most of us hoped) would descend from Heaven with a host of chanting cherubim and seraphim.

Yes, that's how he came, with the jolly little pink-bottomed angels blasting away on their trumpets. It was an unforgettable sight. Many of the Bories started to weep with sheer joy; tears streaming unchecked all the way down their noses and into the soup. Others reared up on their hands and knees to lick his high-button boots. Three had coronaries, four popped their hearing aids, and one (who I fear had taken too many sniffs from the sniffer) started singing, "For he's a jolly good fellow!"

The Chief was in terrific form as he stepped away at his steaming hot Ovaltine. He ranged over Canadian history from 1843 all the way up to 1879. He told us of his visions — that some day there would be a railroad between Hamilton and Brantford; that Quebec would enter Confederation; and that a letter mailed in downtown Toronto would be delivered in Richmond Hill the following week.

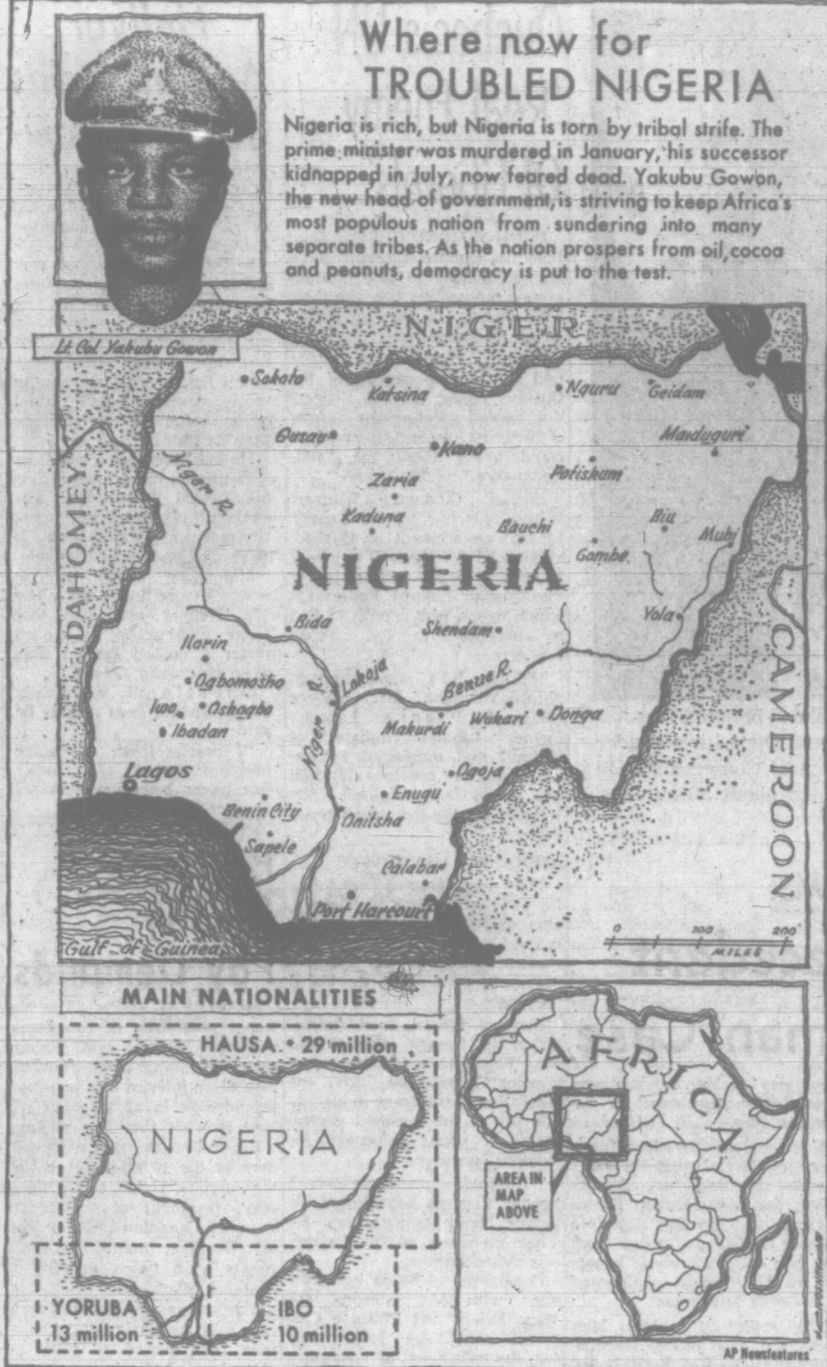

Question Raised

Everything was fine until some young whippersnapper of 70 or thereabouts told the Chief: "Sir, you know you are the greatest Canadian, indeed the greatest human being, who ever lived, and that you are utterly perfect, scrumptious and adorable in every respect. Yet, sir, you are now 187 years old and perhaps at some time (perish the thought!) the leadership question might come up; and would it be an impertinence on my part to suggest, with all due reverence, that it might be taken into consideration let us say around 1999?"

At this, Pandemonium broke out — he's the member for Oxtail County here in Ontario — but after a terrific struggle we got him back into his cage. Several MPs and Senators came tottering up with fists clenched, and one MLA (who I hear had been getting his schnozzle into the Schenley's) shouted angrily, "This would never have happened if George Hees had still been alive!"

The Chief was livid with rage. He told the miscreant, "You filthy traitor! You dirty little Judas! I know about your past record of glue-sniffing! Into action, men!" at which all of us laid hands on the trouble-maker, stuffed him into a brown paper bag, tied the top and dumped it into the harbor.

Well, that's the story of my evening with the Chief, and it's a lot of excitement for a man of my age. But, sir, what is that you are writing on the washroom wall? God is dead? Nonsense, my friend, utter nonsense! God is alive, in top form, and will lead the Bories to victory again.

Three Nations in One, Nigeria's Future Shaky

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

LAGOS, Nigeria — At a time when Nigeria's developing economy is growing richer than ever, bloody tribal differences threaten to rip Africa's most populous country apart.

Nigeria often has been considered Africa's brightest hope for democracy principally because it maintained warm ties with the West and a lively, free economy (an American economist has commented that a Nigerian businessman is unhappy unless he achieves a 25 per cent annual return on an investment).

But Nigeria had a shaky foundation long before it became independent of British rule Oct. 1, 1960. Since 1962 Nigeria has been in a turmoil fed by deep sectional and tribal differences. In 1966, Nigeria went through a coup in January, riots in May and June, and an army mutiny in July.

Murdered in the January 15 coup was the prime minister since independence, modest, gentle Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, a Moslem from the North. Kidnapped in the July 29 mutiny was Maj. Gen. Johnson T. U. Aguiyi-Ironsi, an Eastern Ibo who headed the military regime that succeeded the Balewa government. He is widely presumed dead. But his fate never has been disclosed, and he has become one of the world's most celebrated nonpersons.

Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, a Northern Christian, who now heads the military government at age 31, is Nigeria's third head of government in nine months.

A splitting of Nigeria, whose 357,000 square-mile area is bigger than that of the 13 original American states, became a widely discussed possibility in the summer of 1966. By September 14, influential Nigerians and their advisors, representing four regions and the capital territory, met in Lagos to determine if Nigerians could live together in peace.

Nigeria's federation has been similar to "three nations in one."

Three Groups

Three major groups dominate the country. In the vast North, a Hausa-speaking people, most of whom are Moslems, rule a region containing 80 per cent of all Nigeria and 29 million of its estimated 55 million people. In the Southwest, 13 million Yorubas live in their own region, the West. In the East the predominant tribe is the Ibo with a population estimated at 8-10 million. In 1963, a Midwest region of minority tribes was carved from the West.

Politics became an art of trading on group differences. Despite growing political agitation and corruption, Nigeria's economy took on a life of its own. Oil, first produced commercially in the East in 1938, has given it a tremendous boost. This year Nigeria is expected to become one of the first ten producers of petroleum in the world. Oil exports assure Nigeria sufficient foreign exchange to carry on its development programs.

Unlike other African countries, Nigeria's economy does not depend on one product. Peanuts, grown in the North, provided $147.6 million in foreign exchange in 1965. Cocoa, grown mostly in the West, earned $119 million in the same year, making Nigeria the world's second largest producer of cocoa. Tin and cotton are other major raw materials produced in Nigeria.

'Harrassed' Indian MPs Protesting

By RAM SUNDAR

BOMBAY — Opposition members of the Indian Parliament are agitating over what they call "persistent harassment" by the police.

Home Minister Gulzarilal Nanda, who is in charge of internal security, has denied allegations that opposition MPs are shadowed by the police, that their telephones are tapped and that their letters are opened.

The minister's explanations have not satisfied opposition leaders, one of whom, B. P. Maurya, described Nanda's denial as "an utter lie."

The issue has become the subject of a major political controversy, especially against the background of the forthcoming general elections.

A. K. Gopalan, leader of the pro-Moscow faction of the Indian Communist party, told Parliament his house was surrounded by plainclothes men.

"The government is behaving as if we the opposition have no existence in a parliamentary democracy," said Prof. Hiren Mukherjee, another Communist MP and an Oxford graduate.

Nanda said he had personally investigated the Communist leader's complaint and found it untrue. He said he went to Gopalan's house and spent some time in its vicinity. He saw no policeman.

The Indian government is embarrassed by the fact similar charges have also been made by non-Communist members of Parliament.

Prof. N. G. Ranga, leader of the right-wing Freedom party, says that even letters from his wife are opened by the police before they are delivered.

"The letters are mangled in such a way that my wife has stopped writing to me," Ranga complained. Acharya Kripalani, an independent MP and a strong critic to the administration, said there was nothing that one could do to stop such harassment. "All governments tap telephones and censor letters and there is no use complaining. We have got to live with these things."

THE GALLUP POLL

NDP Support Reaches New Peak of 21 Per Cent

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

Although, as reported earlier this year, Canadian voters give majority support to a two-party system in federal politics, they do not necessarily mean the two old-line parties. If an election were held today, as many of them would support the New Democratic Party as at anytime in the history of that party. The NDPs, which polled 13 per cent of the popular vote in the 1963 election, and nearly 18 per cent in 1965, today would receive slightly over 21 per cent.

Basis for this statement is a regular check on the political pulse of the nation, taken by the institute, through a carefully balanced cross-section of eligible voters from coast to coast, each of whom was asked:

"If a federal election were held today, which party's candidate do you think you would favor?"

The trend of public opinion, since the election in November of last year, can be seen from the following table:

| | Liberals | Conservatives | NDP | Soc-Cred | And Others |
|----------------------|----------|---------------|-----|----------|------------|
| Election: Nov., 1965 | 40% | 33% | 18% | 7% | |
| Jan., 1966 | 44 | 28 | 21 | 7 | |
| May | 41 | 30 | 19 | 10 | |
| July | 38 | 30 | 20 | 12 | |
| TODAY | 37 | 32 | 21 | 10 | |

Excluded from the above tables are those who are uncertain at the moment which party they would support. Currently this group constitutes 30 per cent of the eligible voters of the nation, down sharply from the high of 40% reported last July.

The decline shown above in the support behind the Liberal party would have been even sharper were it not for the fact that in Quebec Province this party showed a gain in popular support in the current poll. However, this gain was offset by losses elsewhere.

The increase of two percentage points shown for the Conservative party is centered mainly in western Canada, where Liberal support shows a drop, resulting in a gain for Conservatives and NDPs.

The Conservatives also show gains in federal party support and the Liberals some loss in the Province of Ontario. It is in this province that the New Democrats get their greatest support—about three in ten of those eligible voters who have made up their minds. In Ontario, Liberals are at well on to a four-in-ten level of support, while Conservatives are only slightly higher than the NDP.

Cape Coloreds Fear Their Future Is Grim

PORT ELIZABETH — For generations South Africa's 1,750,000 Coloreds (persons of mixed race) have lived among whites in the cities and towns in the Cape Province.

Now under the government's Group Areas Act which enforces residential apartheid, the Coloreds are being moved into outlying townships.

Colored leaders in the eastern Cape Province complain about the treatment of their people at Richmond, where the Coloreds have been ordered to move to a new township being created in the bare veldt (open country). More than 1,300 Coloreds are being moved from their former homes among the whites.

A. E. Finck, a member of Richmond's Colored Advisory Council, says the town council did not consult his group. In the new area blocks of houses have been built in rows resembling a military camp. There are no fences, roads run close to the front and back doors of the house and there is absolutely no privacy, Finck said.

New Quebec President Wants To Heal Split Between Parties

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec arm of the Progressive Conservative party was urged by its new president Sunday night to strengthen its ties with the provincial Union Nationale party.

Paul Olivier, president of the party, came out strongly against separatism and in favor of close relations with Premier Daniel Johnson's party.

It was a split between the provincial Conservatives and the federal party that resulted in the birth in 1936 of the Union Nationale and the death of the provincial Conservatives.

In his first post-election speech, Mr. Olivier, mayor of Granby, said he no longer wants to see "a party which separates itself from its comrades-in-arms, who are in large majority those who work for the Union Nationale."

"It is in this sense that I ask

TALKS were held at the weekend between Premier Daniel Johnson of Quebec and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker during a meeting of Conservatives in Quebec City. The talks lasted about 30 minutes. (CP Wirephoto.)

Strongest Backing So Far

The meeting of Quebec Conservatives backed Dalton Camp, national president of the Progressive Conservative party, in his movement to take the question of party leadership before a leadership conference.

The Quebec group gave Mr. Camp his strongest official backing to date by approving a resolution recommending that the Conservative constitution be amended to make it mandatory for a leadership convention to be held every four years, beginning in 1967.

Delegates adopting the resolution, calling for an amendment of the Conservative party constitution made Quebec the third province after British Colum-

'We Are Here To Fight Grits'

"Out of this meeting I hope will come a new resolve in every part of the province to fight Grits. That is what we are here for, not to fight among ourselves."

The Saturday meeting between Mr. Camp and Mr. Diefenbaker was their first since the national president launched his anti-Diefenbaker campaign two weeks ago.

The two met shortly before a dinner at which Mr. Diefenbaker gave his speech. The Conservative leader neither snubbed Mr. Camp nor singled him out for special attention.

Defending his retention of the leadership without a conference, Mr. Diefenbaker said "I want to see us as a democratic party, as always in every annual meeting there has been a vote of confidence."

Can't Ignore Leadership Issues

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The Eastern Ontario Young Progressive Conservative Association Sunday passed a resolution unanimously endorsing national Conservative President Dalton Camp's campaign for a re-assessment of the party leadership.

Delbert O'Brien, national YPC president, told the annual meeting that he has just completed a national tour and found a "unanimous feeling about the leadership issue that cannot be ignored."

TV Elected the Kennedys

NEW YORK (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy said Saturday his brother never would have been elected president in 1960 had it not been for television.

"Without any question," the New York Democrat said, "President Kennedy couldn't have been elected in 1960 without television."

"And I know that I couldn't

TORY CHIEF CLAIMS:

PM Set Precedent In '56 Norman Case

QUEBEC (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Saturday night the precedent in jurisprudence for the handling of state security cases were established by Prime Minister Pearson in the 1950s.

"He established this jurisprudence in 1956 by permitting the late Herbert Norman to remain in the Canadian diplomatic corps even after an American Senate committee had discovered that he had certain links with the Communist party when he was a student," Mr. Diefenbaker told delegates to the annual meeting of the Quebec Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Diefenbaker compared his own actions in the Gerda Munsinger case with those of Mr. Pearson in the Norman affair.

The Opposition leader said he had based his actions on "logic and... compassion."

In this, he said he acted in the

Portage May Come Under Expert's Eye

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba municipal board today recommended that the city of Portage la Prairie be placed under the supervision of the minister of municipal affairs for five years.

In a report on an inquiry into the administration of the financial affairs of Portage la Prairie, the board said there is no evidence of any malfeasance or dishonest conduct.

But, it said, a comptroller should be appointed to assist city council in formulating and putting in operation an adequate and satisfactory system of controls.

He would recommend on administration, certify the authority before any work is undertaken and have signing authority in respect to all bylaws, expenditures and bills of exchange.

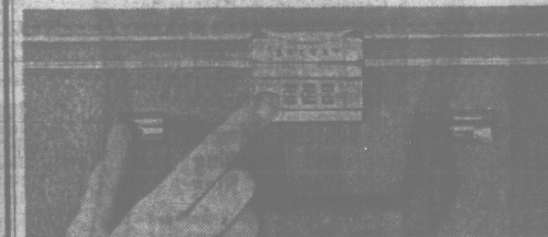

Because of Portage la Prairie's current debt of $3,898,569 and a possible additional debt of $700,000, the board said it is not in the interests of the city to contract further major debts, except in an emergency. It said it will not approve any further substantial city borrowing for capital account in the near future.

ORDERED LAST MAY.

The inquiry was ordered last May after the Manitoba legislature had to validate certain bylaws and authorize unforeseen expenditures by Portage amounting to more than $1,518,000.

The municipal board found that city council failed to obtain the advice of its solicitor concerning five temporary borrowing bylaws, which went forward without submission for necessary board approval.

Quebec's UN 'Real Enemy Of Liberals'

DRUMMONDVILLE, Que. (CP) — Quebec Liberals were warned Sunday to stop fighting among themselves because their real enemy is the governing Union Nationale party.

Former premier Jean Lesage told the closing session of the Quebec Young Liberal Federation annual meeting the danger of warring among themselves could bring about the "self-destruction" of the party.

Earlier, Claude Wagner, justice minister in the former Liberal government of Quebec, announced that he will not be a candidate for the presidency of the Quebec Liberal Federation which meets next month to find a successor to Dr. Irene Lapierre.

Making his announcement Saturday night, Mr. Wagner criticized Pierre Laporte, former Liberal minister of cultural and municipal affairs, for saying the previous day that he would not support Mr. Wagner for the federation presidency.

KIERANS A CANDIDATE

The only avowed candidate for the position is Eric Kierans, who served as health minister in the Lesage government which was defeated in the June 5 provincial election by the Union Nationale.

Bernard Pinard, roads minister in the Lesage cabinet, said Mr. Kierans and other pro-Kierans candidates for the federation presidency made unfair use of the weekend conference of young Liberals for electoral purposes.

He told a press conference Sunday that the behavior of the former health minister and the other members of his "salute" was reprehensible.

Considered to be on the same slate with Mr. Kierans are Marc Briers and Philippe Casgrain, candidates respectively for the positions of secretary and treasurer. Mr. Kierans is known to favor a reorganization within the party as a result of the Liberal defeat in the June election.

INDIANS UNITE FOR ACTION

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Indians in northwestern Ontario formed an association Sunday the aim of which will be to unify them in a bid to improve their lives economically and socially.

The decision to create the Indian Association of Northwestern Ontario came at the end of a three-day conference attended by about 50 delegates from nearby communities and reserves.

The conference was the first in the Lakehead area organized by Indians alone and financed by private donations as well as a grant from the Ontario Human Rights Commission.

Hellyer Again Denies Morale Low

HAMILTON (CP) — Defence Minister Hellyer denied Sunday that low morale in the armed forces is sapping the strength of the services.

In an interview about services unification on Hamilton television station CHCH, Mr. Hellyer said recruitment in the first six months of 1966 was up slightly from last year's figures, that there were more re-engagements and fewer voluntary retirements than in 1965.

He said increasing numbers of men who signed on during the Second World War are arriving at compulsory retirement age and this is increasing recruiting needs.

Manpower needs in the services were under study but Mr. Hellyer estimated that fewer men would be needed under a unified system than were previously needed.

Questioned specifically about armed-forces morale he said: "I realize there are some problems but to say morale has never been lower is not correct."

Postmen Modify Pay Demands

MONTREAL (CP) — The National presidents of two postal workers' unions said Sunday they are willing to entertain the idea of an interim pay increase, provided it is at least 50 per cent of what they are seeking.

Roger Decarie, national president of the 10,000-member Letter Carriers' Union, and William Kay, president of the 11,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers, made the statements at a union meeting in east-end Montreal.

The unions are threatening to call a strike during the Christmas rush period to back up their demands for increased pay and better working conditions.

The letter carriers want an increase of $1 an hour which amounts to a 39 per cent pay boost. The postal handlers want an increase which totals $1.16 an hour.

Should the interim increase offered by the government be 50 per cent of these demands, the unions will be content to negotiate for the remainder, the union leaders said.

TRACKING SUB MISSILES

U.S. on Its Own In Radar Device

OTTAWA (CP) — North American Air Defence Command is developing a system to detect and track missiles launched from submarines off North America's coasts.

But Canada is taking no part in the development and none of the missile-tracking radars will be located in this country though NORAD is a joint Canada-U.S. command, sources said Friday.

The Canadian decision appears to reflect general defence department policy that a nuclear missile exchange between the U.S. and Russia is unlikely and that Canada has gone about as far as it can, on should, in the field of anti-submarine warfare.

However, Dr. A. H. Zimmerman, chairman of the Defence Research Board, said in a recent interview that "the submarine threat is far worse today than it was at the start of the Second World War and it is directed at the North American continent."

WILL MODIFY RADARS

NORAD headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo., says seven coastal radars in the present air defence system will be modified so that they can detect and track submarine-launched ballistic missiles.

An SLBM (sea-launched ballistic missile) radar now is being developed by the Avco Corp. of Cincinnati.

NORAD says inability to detect missiles launched from the sea has been a serious gap in the North American warning network.

Ground and airborne radars have long been in operation to warn of any long-range missile attack from Russia.

Information collected by the sea-watching radars will be fed into NORAD's combat operations centre by computers.

The new system will be operated by U.S. Air Defence Command.

VANCOUVER PARTY ENDS IN STABBING

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Obenkuft, about 30, was found stabbed to death Sunday night in his attic room at a rooming house here.

Police said there was evidence of a drinking party and a struggle.

A man who refused to identify himself telephoned police earlier and said: "You'd better get up to the top floor of 768 Hamilton. There's been someone murdered."

Obenkuft was found face-down on a bed-chestfield. He had a stab wound in the chest.

Urgent Need For Volunteers In S. Pacific

Doctors, nurses and teachers are urgently needed in the South Pacific.

So says the Bishop of Pohnia, Right Rev. John C. Vockler, who was in Victoria over the weekend.

"We need dedicated workers because the South Pacific is not the paradise it was once thought to be. The impact of modern life is being felt more and more and the accelerated pace of change is bewildering for many."

The tall, Australian-born bishop flew to Vancouver Saturday from his home at Suva in the Fiji Islands and came to Victoria to preach in Christ Church Cathedral Sunday morning.

His diocese covers an area of 11 million square miles and includes the Fiji Islands, Gilbert and Ellis Islands, Tonga, Western Samoa and Tahiti.

Unity Key to Progress, Says Chamber President

EDMONTON (CP) — The majority of Canadians recognize that Canada's strength lies in its continuing unity, says Maj. Gen. R. H. Keefler of Montreal, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

In a keynote address at the chamber's annual meeting today, he reviewed his year as head of the businessmen's organization and said there have been "sensational and irresponsible incidents" about unity which had been translated into alarming trends.

"Certainly I cannot deny that there are organized movements advocating separatism," he said.

However, he had concluded most Canadians wanted unity.

"I sincerely hope that more and more Canadians will come to share the conclusion that there is no part of Canada that can decide to go it alone and be as well off afterwards. . . ."

"Our opportunities for growth and prosperity will be seriously hampered if we devote our energies to those things, which tend to separate us."

Gen. Keefler, chairman of Northern Electric Co. Ltd., also said it is encouraging to note the increased contact between government and business.

"Government today has the responsibility for creating the optimum conditions for worthwhile enterprise to flourish. Determining what those conditions are is a co-operative affair involving government, businessmen and labor representatives."

Asia to Gain —Others Lose Immigration Proposals To Hit Italians, Greeks

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—The forthcoming white paper on immigration may open the door to Canada for more Asians, Africans and Eastern Europeans.

However, the uniform standards of admission it is expected to propose could also close the door on many Italians, Greeks and Portuguese, informants say.

They say this will be a major result if government proposals in the 15,000-word policy statement are adopted by Parliament.

Immigration Minister Marchand is expected to table the document shortly after the Commons session resumes Wednesday.

He has stressed in recent speeches that the white paper will end the racial discrimination now built into Canadian immigration law.

At the moment, a skilled man from most countries can get into Canada easily enough. How many relatives he can bring depends on where he is from.

The sponsorship rights of Western Europeans are broad, those of Asians, Africans and Eastern Europeans narrow.

The new policy aims at a standard, probably one that will allow any immigrant to sponsor the entry of dependents only in general wives, children or parents.

This would check the stream of unskilled brothers, sisters, cousins and so forth flowing in on the heels of Italian, Greek and Portuguese immigrants.

It wouldn't materially affect British, French, German, Dutch or Northern European immigration because these newcomers usually limit sponsorship to wives and children.

Sponsored Relatives Limited

But the heavy flow of sponsored immigrants from Mediterranean countries has been of major concern since 1959.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, then Conservative immigration minister, caused an ethnic storm when she ordered that brothers, sisters, married sons, and daughters be removed from the categories of sponsorable immigrants. She had to revoke the order quickly.

Sponsorship problems are among many that have appeared since the present Immigration Act was passed in 1952.

Parliament hasn't had a full-scale debate on immigration since 1955, though promises of a revision of the act have been almost annual.

Prime Minister Pearson said Dec. 31, 1964, that Parliament would get a white paper—the first ever on immigration—in the next session.

The policy statement that resulted was redrafted at least four times under Immigration Minister Nicholson, now the labor minister, and twice since Mr. Marchand took office late last year.

When he presents it, no fewer than six former immigration ministers may be in the Commons. They are Conservatives Davie Fulton and Richard A. Bell and Liberals J. W. Pickers-gill, now transport minister.

Guy Favreau, Privy Council president, Mr. Nicholson, and Rene Tremblay, who resigned from the cabinet last December.

In the back benches on all sides are MPs who have a strong personal or political interest in immigration policy.

Ethnic Feelings Run High

They range from Liberal Joe Macaluso, member for Hamilton West whose father emigrated from Italy, to those from ridings with a strong ethnic vote.

A measure that will probably set up the number of immigrants from countries like Poland and Yugoslavia will entail modified security procedures to remove existing limitations on Eastern Europeans.

At the same time, more effective controls to keep out criminals and other undesirables will be proposed.

Other areas of change:

—Procedures to distinguish clearly visitors from landed immigrants. The department now is trying to legalize the status of an estimated 40,000 visitors who decided to stay after they arrived. Most came from Italy, Greece and Portugal.

—Relaxation of medical provisions considered to be outdated. For instance, anyone who was ever insane can't get into Canada as an immigrant.

—Clarification of areas of ministerial and departmental jurisdiction. Under present rules, heavy political pressure can be put on a minister. At the same time, department officers have had—until it was ruled unconstitutional—the power to reject immigrants they considered unsuitable by reasons of cultural background, economic factors, probable inability to become assimilated, and so on.

Parliament now has a bill before it to create an independent immigration appeal board, with provision for a final appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada rather than to the immigration minister.

Immigration ministers have consistently found their backs to the political wall when they had to rule on deportation orders.

Immigration in recent times, influenced by everything from crisis to recession, has varied from 280,000 in 1956 to 71,000 in 1961.

The ideal intake is considered to be a steady one per cent of the population, or about the 200,000 immigrants who will arrive in 1966.

FORMALITY

Brazilian President To Be Named Today

By DAVID REID

BRASILIA (Reuters) — Political leaders gathered here today to elect Marshal Arthur da Costa e Silva the next Brazilian president.

A flurry of special flights from Brazil's major cities during the last 24 hours brought the 409 deputies and 66 senators together for today's vital joint session of the national congress.

Despite a planned opposition boycott, the election of the former war minister was regarded as a mere formality.

The government party—the Pro-Revolutionary National Renewal Alliance—has 247 supporters in the chamber of 409 deputies, and 45 of the 66 seats in the senate.

Marshal Da Costa e Silva, who celebrates his 64th birthday today, will not take office until next March 15 when he takes over from President Humberto Castello Branco for a four-year term.

After today's election he was expected to appeal for national unity and easing of tensions to allow Brazil to complete the revolutionary process and return to full democratic process.

Recently students have demonstrated in the streets for a return to a more democratic form of government.

The marshal already has indicated he will continue along the general economic lines adopted by the military government of Castello Branco.

But he said economic and financial policies would be carried out with less rigidity and with adaptations required by the needs of the moment.

The marshal was one of the leaders of the March, 1964, revolt which toppled leftist president Joao Goulart.

After today's election he was

'Fat Pig China Better Than Hungry Wolf'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A delegation of Japanese cabinet ministers will try to enlist the support of Canada to keep Communist China "a fat pig, not a hungry wolf," says a Japanese university professor and commentator on international affairs.

Dr. Hirotsugu Fujiwara said in an interview here Saturday that Canada will be asked during a meeting of Japanese and Canadian cabinet ministers in Ottawa next week to increase trade with China.

BETTER FAT

"The Japanese people feel it would be better if Red China is a fat pig, not a hungry wolf," he said.

Prof. Fujiwara is accompanying the Japanese delegation.

He said Canada and Japan have a similar relationship with China, since both carry on trade with the Communist country, and both have an interest in keeping that country peaceful.

TOO PROUD

Dr. Fujiwara who has just completed a three-week tour of China said the Chinese were too proud to ask for help directly "but I can say without exaggeration that Red China needs every kind of trade Canada has to offer."

That was especially true because of the rift with Russia.

REAL POWER

Dr. Fujiwara said Mao Tse-tung is old and infirm and is set up by Premier Chou En-lai and Defence Minister Lin Biao, who hold the real power.

Mao's reported swim of the Yangtze River was a fake, the professor said. A photograph of Mao in a swimming pool was superimposed on another of several others swimming in the river.

When the professor saw Mao during his visit, the Chinese leader was supported by two female Red Guards and he could not speak. He was believed a victim of throat cancer.

Viewed realistically at the moment, however, the chances of orderly development for China seem doubtful — unless, of course, Mao and his opponents can somehow compose their differences.

Since Mao has projected himself as an infallible deity, the likelihood of his compromising with his opponents appears remote.

In the administration, there are officials who fear that another "great leap forward" of the sort attempted in 1958 will disrupt the country's senior soldiers who consider Mao's focus on guerrilla warfare dangerously anachronistic as a defence against modern American technology.

ALIENATE INTELLECTUALS

Mao's "cultural revolution" has alienated China's academic and scientific community, and his militant "red guards" have frightened millions of ordinary citizens, particularly in the cities.

At the same time, the 10-member panel of prominent judges and lawyers specifically rejected the idea of restricting crime news coverage by new laws or through expanded use of the courts' contempt powers.

"We submit that the primary burden for ensuring fair trial rests on the legal branch and the agencies which serve and minister to it," the panel said in the preamble to its 226-page report.

It recommended that the canons of legal ethics be revised to limit what prosecutors and defence lawyers may say publicly about a suspect, witnesses and evidence from the time of arrest until completion of trial.

Similarly, it recommended that all criminal courts adopt rules to limit release of information by police and law enforcement agencies.

NORTH VIET HAS RUSS ADVISORS

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union said Sunday for the first time that Russian soldiers are in North Viet Nam training anti-aircraft units.

The United States has suspected the Kremlin began supplying North Viet Nam with anti-aircraft missiles and training their crews in 1965 after their raids against North Viet Nam.

Sunley's statement, in the Soviet armed forces newspaper Red Star, was the first official confirmation by the Russians of regular army personnel in North Viet Nam.

OPPOSITION MAY DUMP MAO'S MEN

Return to Chaos Feared for China

By STANLEY KARNOW

The Washington Post

HONG KONG — As China enters its 18th year, experts here are beginning to question seriously whether the Peking regime can survive much longer in its present shape.

Indeed, for the first time since the Communists took over China in 1949, even the most sober specialists are speculating on the possibility that Mao Tse-tung and his heir apparent, Lin Biao, could be overthrown by an opposition that has, from all accounts, grown significantly within recent months.

Such an eventuality, should it come to pass, might plunge China into a chaos reminiscent of the 1920s, when the country was torn asunder by rival warlords and political factions.

Such a prospect, analysts here believe, could conceivably confront both the United States and the Soviet Union with the temptation to intervene in a potential civil war of fearful dimensions.

ANNUAL PREDICTIONS

Conjecture of this kind is not inspired by the dreams of Nationalist China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, who sits on his island refuge of Taiwan, annually predicting a Communist collapse on the mainland.

Nor does it reflect the hope of responsible Far East specialists, most of whom would prefer to see China undergo a stable political evolution rather than degenerate into turmoil.

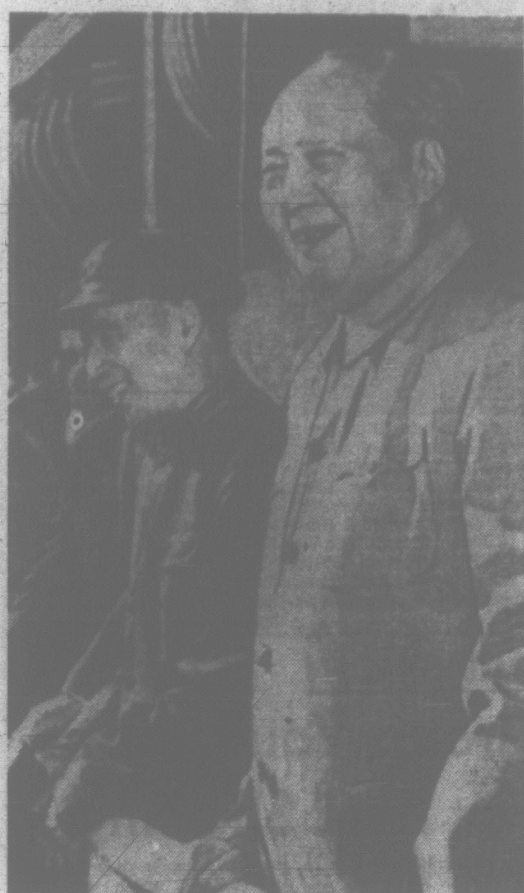

Viewed realistically at the moment, however, the chances of orderly development for China seem doubtful — unless, of course, Mao and his opponents can somehow compose their differences.

Since Mao has projected himself as an infallible deity, the likelihood of his compromising with his opponents appears remote.

In the administration, there are officials who fear that another "great leap forward" of the sort attempted in 1958 will disrupt the country's senior soldiers who consider Mao's focus on guerrilla warfare dangerously anachronistic as a defence against modern American technology.

ALIENATE INTELLECTUALS

Mao's "cultural revolution" has alienated China's academic and scientific community, and his militant "red guards" have frightened millions of ordinary citizens, particularly in the cities.

CHINESE LEADER Mao Tse-tung and his righthand man, Defence Minister Lin Biao, left, watch massing of 3 million faithful in Peking, Saturday, during observance of 17th anniversary of Communist takeover. (AP Wirephoto.)

For many Communist party veterans, moreover, Mao's pretensions to be Lenin's successor as a creative Marxist was offensive.

The core of Mao's policy was, as it has been consistently, that the mobilization of the Chinese people could be achieved only by intensive spiritual indoctrination.

A good deal of evidence suggests that Mao was supported by only a minority within the Communist hierarchy. For that reason, it is now believed, he came to depend heavily on Lin Biao and the army.

Not only did Mao admire Lin personally, he also admired the way Lin had assumed control of the army in 1959 and indoctrinated it in much the same fashion Mao wished to see all China indoctrinated.

Out of the alliance with Lin, then, came the "cultural revolution," the grand design to purify the country. Much of that purification process involved purging the party apparatus.

Party officials in the provinces have been fired and reshuffled, and scarcely a day now passes without the revelation of a Communist committee secretary as a sinister "monster."

Several China specialists here contend, however, that Mao cannot possibly cleanse the entire party machinery. Reports from China abound in accounts of party officials resisting the "Red Guards."

Last month in the town of Changsha, in Mao's native Hunan province, workers organized by the municipal party committee beat up "Red Guards" criticizing local Communist officials. In Chengchow, the province party committee arrested the "Red Guards."

Similarly, in Shantung and Kiangsi provinces, Communist cadres led workers and peasants in attacks against "Red Guard" teams. Other such incidents have occurred in all of the party's six administrative regions.

How far this tumult will go is difficult to foresee. Until now, however, it has dramatized the fact that China is not the Communist monolith it once was. Mao himself may prove a victim of its new disunity.

ATTEND A DEMONSTRATION OF "Effective Reading"

★ Effective Reading is the ability to vary both your reading rate and technique according to the style, purpose, importance and difficulty of the material being read.

READING DYNAMICS is a reading improvement course—designed to teach you to read more effectively. We will teach you to become more flexible in your ability to recall and comprehend what you have read.

Any student following our directions who after completing the minimum class and study requirements, does not at least TRIPLE his reading efficiency as measured by our beginning and ending tests, will be entitled to a refund.

Here are some results achieved by members of our last graduating class in Vancouver: ("Comp." designates comprehension)

SURPLUS, NOT U.S. BLAMED IN SHUTDOWN

MOOSEJAW (CP) — Trade Minister Winters says in a telegram to Mayor L. H. Lewry that the Robin Hood Flour Company did not bid on a contract to sell 15,000,000 bushels of wheat flour to the Soviet Union.

CASTRO
... no sale

While it is true that Robin Hood has not submitted bids to the U.S.S.R. on flour destined for Cuba, no business has been lost to Canada," the telegram says, noting there is excess milling capacity in the industry.

Robin Hood's Moose Jaw mill was closed Friday, unemploying 90 persons. The company announced about 10 days ago the mill would be closed for economic reasons.

Fred Locking, business representative for the United Packinghouse Workers' Union, said the mill could have continued operating five days a week had company officials not refused a recent order from Cuba.

"There isn't one employee... who has been there any length of time who is not aware of the company policy about selling flour destined for Cuba," he said.

"It has long been our understanding that company policy, as it is formulated south of the border, does not permit trading with the enemy of the United States."

12 More Papers Eyed by Thomson

LONDON (CP) — Lord Thomson says he plans to spend more than $27,000,000 establishing 12 British evening newspapers during the next five years.

"We're looking at the possible markets, not only in the London area but all over Britain," the 72-year-old Canadian-born publisher said in an interview today.

"I think the markets justify that we establish these new papers at the rate of at least a couple a year with a target of 12 in the next five years. They'll cost roughly about $750,000 ($2,250,000) each."

Thomson, whose latest merger deal gives him majority control of The Times, Britain's most influential newspaper, indicated there will be no let-up in his ambitious plans to expand his host of business operations, including newspapers, broadcasting and magazine production in numerous countries as well as air travel and other money-making enterprises.

'REACTION FAVORABLE'
"The reaction to the merger has been generally favorable," said Thomson.

"In addition to other enterprises, we're looking at plans to expand our travel business," he said.

Using mainly Britannias, Thomson subsidiaries do a big business flying Britons to Yugoslavia and other European spots. What he now has in mind is using faster aircraft to fly Canadians and Americans to Caribbean holiday resorts in travel operators.

He also hopes to expand the international sale of Times news copy in what he describes as an international news service aimed mainly at North American newspapers.

But his big project, now that he had negotiated one of the biggest newspaper coups in British history, is to concentrate on the opening of the small evening newspapers. His target of 12 in the next five years includes two already announced, to be established in the north London suburban area of Hertfordshire and Bedfordshire. These would be developed along the style of his computer-controlled, and offset Evening Post at Reading established last year.

To make money, Thomson estimates these papers must have a circulation of between 40,000 and 60,000. So far the Reading circulation is about 28,500.

"We expect Reading to hit 40,000 in about a year," Thomson estimated.

There has been speculation that Thomson's main aim in establishing these small dailies is to surround the territory of the mass-circulation London Evening News and Evening Standard.

Thomson announced last Friday that The Times joins with his profitable Sunday Times in a new company in which he will have 85 per cent control.

PACKING STRIKE ALL OVER

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Packers operations will resume today following settlement of a 2½-month strike which shut down plants across the country.

Members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America voted 2,362 to 1,080 in favor of a new contract giving them a 55-cent-an-hour wage increase in a three-year contract.

A company spokesman said offers on livestock will be made today and various departments in the company's meat packing plants will be phased in gradually.

Capital expenditures were running well ahead of earlier projections, there was a bumper wheat crop and exports had soared — "even if they have been matched by an increase in imports."

There had been a few soft spots such as housing starts "but the monthly returns from business have reflected a vigorous prosperity."

A major outcome of the four-day businessmen's conference will be the launching of what the chamber calls its economic opportunity program.

This is a detailed study to be carried out by the organization's 850 local chambers and boards of trade of potential industrial growth in their areas and its effects on employment and community needs.

The chamber says the project should produce the most detailed picture of business prospects ever obtained in Canada.

C. P. Beaubien of Montreal, vice-chairman of the chamber's executive council and chairman of its public affairs committee, said some of the most important findings of the study of employment opportunities will be in the field of education.

FEARS DISRUPTION
"But the spectre of inflation will disrupt us unless management and labor can co-operate in supporting a government which will exercise the courage and fortitude in meeting the growing inflation menace which is beginning to stalk the land."

"In this way a serious business recession may be avoided and a satisfactory level of prosperity can be prolonged."

Mr. Morrell noted that, although the last federal budget had intended to reduce business capital expenditures by $300,000,000 to $8,700,000,000, the latest estimates suggested the level would rise to $9,500,000,000.

Much of this spending was needed to reduce production costs by increasing efficiency, he said.

"Some of it, however, will result in capacity in excess of the growth of demand over the next few years."

Of the general business scene during the last year, Mr. Morrell said conditions have been buoyant despite the twin problems of inflation and a tight labor market.

CHAMBER WARNS:

Don't Tie Wage Hike To Production Gains

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

EDMONTON (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce Sunday warned the government against trying a policy of tying wage increases to gains in productivity.

Other governments have tried, but it has succeeded nowhere, General Manager D. L. Morrell told the opening annual meeting.

"To apply such a guideline to all workers in all industries, regardless of the gains in productivity and profitability of specific industries presents obstacles which the United States, for example, had found insurmountable," Mr. Morrell said.

He also renewed a call for fiscal and monetary restraints to control inflationary pressures in the economy.

Restraint in the face of Canada's industrial and resources potential "may smack of heresy, a sense of defeatism," he told the 800 delegates. "Yet inflation threatens and the only cure is the exercise of both monetary and fiscal restraints, however non-selective they may be."

"It is an unpopular choice which confronts any democratic government and particularly in Canada where the challenge of opportunities excites the minds of men of action."

Fewer Low-Income Families

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — United States production in 1975 will exceed $1 trillion and there will be fewer low-income families, the president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce predicted.

M. A. Wright, speaking to the Los Angeles Chamber, said an increasingly large proportion of the U.S. population would be "concentrated in the $10,000 and over income range."

Wright said one impediment to future progress could be a growing imbalance between the skills needed by the U.S. economy and those actually possessed by the labor force.

"It has been predicted that in 1975 some three-fourths of our labor force will be producing goods and services that have not yet been developed," he said.

"Unless policy makers — at both public and private levels — demonstrate unusually keen insight, our future economic and technological achievements could be tarnished by a large and growing reserve of unemployed," Wright said.

Down Drain for Giants After Sandy Got Lead

Koufax Pitches Dodgers To National League Flag

By The Associated Press

For Sandy Koufax and the Los Angeles Dodgers it was all down hill after the sixth inning Sunday. For the San Francisco Giants it was all down the drain after the third.

As he did on the next-to-last day of the season last year, the amazing Koufax pitched the Dodgers to the National League pennant, their second straight, scattering seven hits in a 6-3 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

"It was all downhill for me after the sixth," the 30-year-old left-hander said amid a wild Dodger celebration after bringing his record to 27 victories, most in his career, against nine defeats.

The Giants, though, felt their hopes for a first-place tie sink in the third inning when the Dodgers exploded for three runs. Like everyone else in baseball, they knew all too well that Koufax rarely, if ever, loses with that great a lead.

BRAVES, ANGELS ENJOY HUGE GAINS AT GATE

NEW YORK (AP)—The major league baseball teams, bolstered by whopping gains in Atlanta and for the California Angels, drew a total of 25,203,229 fans in 1966, up from a 1965 total of 22,441,824.

The Braves and Angels had the most dramatic increases, but the National League champion Los Angeles Dodgers again topped all teams with 2,617,059. The Dodgers played before 2,553,571 a year ago.

The Braves, who drew only 555,584 in Milwaukee a year ago, increased to 1,539,801 in their first year at Atlanta, while the Angels pulled in 1,400,321 with their new park in Anaheim, up from 556,727 the year before.

In all, the National League drew 15,036,491, an increase from 13,581,130 the year before, while the American League increased to 10,166,738 from 8,860,694.

FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN

"Sandy probably will go in the second game," Alston said.

In other games, Atlanta Braves trimmed Cincinnati 4-2, St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago Cubs 2-0 and Houston Astros swept New York Mets 6-1 and 8-2.

Winner Right Name For New Card Coach

By Associated Press

St. Louis Cardinals struck for 24 points in the second half Sunday and continued their National Football League resurgence under new coach Charlie Wilson with a 41-10 triumph over Philadelphia Eagles.

It was the fourth victory without a loss for the Cards who had a frustrating 5-9 finish last year. They have been outplayed by the Eagles in the first half Sunday but led 17-10 thanks to an 86-yard punt return by rookie Johnny Roland.

Roland returned three punts for 142 yards overall, setting an NFL single game record with an average of 47.3 yards a runback.

Then Larry Wilson intercepted a pass and raced 91 yards for a touchdown, Jerry Gray ran 18 yards to score with another pass theft, quarterback

Reserve Signal-Callers Settle for 11-11 Draw

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan Roughriders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers fought to an 11-11 draw under a pair of rookie quarterbacks Sunday in one of three week-end football games in the West.

The single point put the Bombers in a tie with Edmonton Eskimos for second place in the Western Football Conference, with Saskatchewan still on top.

Saturday, Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Conference, absorbed 137 yards in penalties while trouncing Edmonton 28-7, and Montreal Alouettes converted interceptions into touchdowns and dumped Calgary Stampeders 26-15.

In Regina, the Riders lost last quarterback Ron Lancaster in the second quarter and used rookie Bruce Bennett for the second time in a league game. He scored a touchdown.

Rich Badar handled signal-calling for Winnipeg in place of Kenny Ploen, out with a bruised back.

George Reed celebrated his 27th birthday in style, rushing for 165 yards, including a 71-yard run that set up the only Saskatchewan touchdown. Jack Abendschan got the convert, a single and a 52-yard field goal.

Dave Perkins got the Winnipeg touchdown, Ed Ulin-e-booted a single and Norm Winton kicked a field goal and a convert.

In Edmonton, the Tiger-Cats sharpened up their claws for the hapless British Columbia Lions tonight with their easy win over the Eskimos.

(Tonight's B.C.-Hamilton game will be carried in the Victoria area only on cablevision's channel 13.)

Matter of a Foot Kept the Steelers From Connecting

TACOMA—What's a foot when two must do?

The one foot belonged to Victoria halfback Ron Morris, and because he failed to keep it in bounds the Steelers are still looking for their first Pacific Football League victory.

They came close Saturday, a Victoria touchdown on the last play of the game was nullified by an out-of-bounds ruling, and the Steelers dropped a 23-26 heartbreaker to Tacoma Tyeves.

Victoria scored its final touchdown with only 37 seconds left in the game. Steelers promptly gambled on an onside kick, the play worked and Victoria recovered the ball deep in Tacoma territory.

With time for only one play left, Victoria quarterback Pete Ohler passed to Morris in the end zone. Morris made the catch at the sidelines but the referee ruled the Victoria player's foot was out of bounds.

MISSED CONVERTS

That was the play that created the greatest controversy, but not to be overlooked is the fact that Victoria failed to convert three of their touchdowns. That was the difference.

Bill Taylor, an 18-year-old halfback from Seattle, scored two majors for Victoria, the first on the opening play of the game that covered 76 yards. Morris and Jim Pannell also counted touchdowns, both on passes from Ohler, and Victoria's total was completed when end Jerry Jones caught a two-point conversion pass.

Quarterback Bob Batterman, Bill White, Raoul Encira and Dave Bottlemiller scored TD's for Tacoma.

Dick Barnes made good on all four convert tries.

Victoria, accompanied Saturday by former B.C. Lions assistant coach Frank Johnston, will play their final road game in Edmonds next Saturday. They then wrap up their campaign with four straight home games.

Ramblers Claim First Before Record Crowd

Times News Service

Some cracks finally showed in the Ramblers' mighty defence, but Seattle continues to fly high in the Pacific Football League.

Seattle took over undisputed possession of first place Sunday by defeating Eugene Bombers 31-20 before a record turnout of 7,438 fans in Eugene.

It was Seattle's fourth straight, and the first time a team has managed to score any points against the Ramblers.

In another Sunday game, Edmonds scored its first victory by whipping Portland 23-0 as the Thunderbirds managed only 20 yards on the ground and lost the ball four times on fumbles.

Ramblers led 24-10 at the half, sparked by a 95-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Steve Bramwell.

HENLEY WAS HOT

Speedy Garney Henley snared three Eskimo passes to cap an outstanding night as Hamilton got touchdowns from Bob Kluntz, Himel and Tommy Grant with Don Sutherland converting all three and adding two field goals. Joe Zuger kicked a single.

Jim Thomas scored a touchdown and Randy Kerbow converted for the only Edmonton score.

Montreal Alouettes also used interceptions to best advantage in Calgary. Two Alouette touchdowns came as a result of interceptions.

Calgary quarterback Jerry Keeling lost three passes to the Alouette defence and was replaced in the third quarter by Pete Liske.

Don Liske scored two Montreal touchdowns and quarterback Bernie Faloney added a third. Peter Kemp converted two while Gino Berretta got two singles and Faloney snatched.

Liske ran 10 yards for one touchdown and passed to Howard Starks for another. Larry Robinson converted both and kicked a single.

LIONS SUFFERING

In Vancouver tonight the Tiger-Cats face a team that has won only two games all season and has just lost offensive coach Frank Johnston because of ill health.

In the lone game played in the Eastern Conference, quarterback Russ Jackson dazzled the Argonauts with long passes and a variety of running plays to lead Ottawa Rough Riders to an 17-8 victory Saturday night at Toronto.

Jackson also scored a touchdown for the leading Riders, who also got a touchdown from fullback Jim Dillard and a field goal, single and convert from Moe Racine.

Rookies Show Up Well As Leafs Defeat Gulls

By ERNIE FEDORUK

CHILLIWACK — Fred Borgeson said hello to professional hockey Saturday night, and chances are that professional hockey will see a great deal more of the scrappy young winger from North Battleford, Sask.

While he didn't score a goal, Borgeson figured prominently in the action as Victoria Maple Leafs launched their Western Hockey League exhibition series with a 3-2 victory over fledgling San Diego Gulls.

Borgeson passed smartly to set up Mike Laughton for the game's first goal. Before and after, he worked hard, bumped often in his efforts to impress Victoria coach Frank Mario.

He drew two of Victoria's three penalties, and the misdeeds added to the rookie's rating. Especially the second one. It came after he tangled rugged veteran Len Haley of San Diego.

Haley took a swipe at Victoria goalie Mike Berridge seconds earlier. Borgeson hustled over to belt Haley. They had words, then moments later engaged in their brief wrestling display.

Equally impressive was Laughton, another rookie via Nelson Maple Leafs. In addition to scoring his goal, the lanky and rugged Laughton showed excellent "puck sense" and controlled the puck as well as any veteran on hand.

Milan Marcetta and Bob Barlow scored Victoria's other goals while Warren Hynes got both for San Diego with a pair of blazing shots.

Mario alternated Berridge and Gary Holland in the Maple Leaf nets almost every five minutes. Each allowed a goal, but both came up with several good saves.

San Diego out-shot Victoria 26-18 but Leafs appeared to have much of the better chances.

The two clubs meet again Wednesday night in Victoria's Memorial Arena.

First Period—1. Victoria, Laughton (Hynes, Borgeson) 5:14; 2. San Diego, Hynes (Haley) 15:31; 3. Victoria, Marcetta (Borgeson) 16:28. Penalties: Borgeson (V) 8:08, McGill (SD) 15:41.

Second Period—4. San Diego, Hynes (Caruthers) 7:45. Penalties: Borgeson (V) and Haley (SD) 16:45.

Third Period—5. Victoria, Barlow (Marcetta, Robertson) 18:08. Penalty: Laughton 2:14.

Scores: Victoria 3, San Diego 2.

Shoulder Injury Sidelines Orr

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Orr, Boston Bruins' rookie sensation, will be sidelined a week following a shoulder injury during weekend exhibition play in the National Hockey League.

Orr, 18-year-old defence whiz, made the jump to professional ranks from junior this season with apparent ease. But Saturday night in Kingston he ran into Earl Ingarfield of New York Rangers and pulled muscles in his left shoulder.

"It wasn't a bad check that got me," Orr said. "I was low when Earl Ingarfield hit me into the boards."

The Rangers won 3-0 but the Bruins took it out on the Maple Leafs Sunday in Peterborough by handing Toronto its first loss in six pre-season games, 3-1.

In other Sunday games the Red Wings downed Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 in Detroit, Montreal Canadiens defeated the Aces of the American Hockey League 7-2 in Quebec City and the Americans of the AHL dumped New York 5-3.

Saturday the Canadiens downed Detroit 3-1 in Montreal while Chicago beat the Western Hockey League Blades in Los Angeles, 6-2.

Al Lonsberry, Pit Martin and

Tom Williams scored for Boston Sunday while Frank Mahovlich got the Toronto goal. The Leafs lost forward Larry Jeffrey in the third period when he was hit by John McKenzie. Jeffrey was taken to hospital with a possible concussion and his condition was reported satisfactory.

It was a bad weekend for the Leafs. Saturday night goalie Terry Sawchuk, on loan to Tulsa Oilers of the Central Professional League, suffered a gash over his left eye while playing in Toronto against North York Varsity Grads of the Senior Ontario Hockey Association. Sawchuk left the game in the second period for repairs and watched the rest of the contest, won 4-1 by Tulsa, from the bench.

Racing oldtimers are well aware of the many trips Digger O'Dell made to the winner's circle around Pacific Northwest tracks.

Now son Rick is following those same footsteps.

Rick was the big winner at Western Speedway on Saturday, barreling down the stretch to capture the 75-mile Vancouver Island jockey championship before a turnout of about 1,100 fans.

Al Hitchcock finished second, despite a falling battery, and Roy Smith was third in a field of 33.

YOUR HEALTH

Tumors Caused by Silicone

By WALTER ALVAREZ

Recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association an editorial writer said that of late the Japanese have been using silicone fluid plus some fatty acids for injections to fill out hollows under the skin and to enlarge breasts.

Three women who had such an injection made already have little silicone tumors. Many years ago injections of another substance (paraffin oil) were made with the idea of filling out wrinkles and making women look younger.

A number of the persons who had such injections made by nurses and quacks later got lumpy little tumors that had to be dissected out by a surgeon. The fear of such bad results has now caused our federal health authorities to forbid the making of silicone injections in the U.S.

Each year thousands of people go into large clinics or consult doctors complaining of dizziness and many of these people will get a very questionable diagnosis of Meniere's disease. First, the doctor who takes the history may fail to ask, "What do you mean by 'dizziness'?" Was it a feeling of spinning around or was it a loss of sense of position in space? Second, the doctor may fail to test the person's hearing and learn that it is perfect in both ears. According to experts, one cannot have Meniere's disease unless one has lost some hearing in at least one ear.

Often, much depends on whether the patient is young or old. When an old person comes in and says that recently he developed Meniere's disease, I have grave doubts. I say, "Tell me exactly how the disease started," and often the old person says, "It began suddenly with a very frightening dizzy spell in which I thought I was having a stroke; I thought I was going to die." Then the chances are that the man's diagnosis is right, and he did have a "little stroke."

The true Meniere's disease is more likely to come in middle age and without such a sudden and terrifying dizzy spell.

Often the assistant physician who takes the history can unwittingly deceive his chief by putting down the patient has "vertigo," which means that either the person feels as if he were spinning around, or he thinks the room is spinning. Such spinning is likely to be felt by the person with a true Meniere's disease — with some swelling of the membrane lining the canals of the inner ear.

The person whose trouble is hardening of some small arteries in his brain, with perhaps a temporary plugging up of a little artery, usually does not feel that he is spinning around. He is more likely to feel a loss of his usual good sense of balance, and he may just want to hold onto something for a few seconds, so that he will not fall to the floor. He may feel a bit woozy, as some elderly people do if they jump up suddenly from a bed or a chair, or if suddenly they stand up after having bent over to find a book on a low shelf.

Some of the people with hardening of the arteries of the brain and a little stroke will say, "While lying on my bed, I suddenly felt that it was going to turn over and throw me on the floor." Another one will say, "I felt tipsy, as if a bit drunk, or I felt tottery."

Caution Urged In Unity Bid

VANCOUVER (CP) — The moderator of the Presbyterian Church says some members of his church are apprehensive about going along too quickly with the "easy-flowing ecumenical tide."

Rt. Rev. G. Deane Johnston of Brantford, Ont., said the Presbyterian Church believes there "should be no experiments in church union of an organic nature" because of the church's present state of development.

However, he told a meeting of Presbyterian ministers and elders, this does not mean his church will close its doors to ecumenical conversations with other churches.

"You can talk to a girl without proposing marriage," he said. "We should never cast ourselves adrift from our Christian brethren."

The 26-year-old beauty has told her friends she hopes she will have a girl. Sukarno, 65, already has four sons and three daughters by two of his three other wives.

ASK ANDY

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Brady, age 11, of Phoenix, Ariz., for his question:

What Exactly Is the Meaning of Nuclear Physics?

The first nuclear physicists thought of themselves as chemists. The immense science of chemistry spreads into many fields of more specialized subjects. The study of the atom and the physics involved in its dynamic nature gave birth to the specialized science of nuclear physics.

The word nuclear refers to the nucleus of the atom, which is the dynamic core of the mighty midjet. The word physics covers a multitude of science concepts that deal with matter and energy. A physicist depends on math to grasp and apply the laws of physics. A space scientist uses certain laws of physics to launch a satellite and plot its path. Chemists use laws of physics to rearrange molecules into new synthetics. Builders and mechanics, electricians and engineers must base their work on the sound principles of physics.

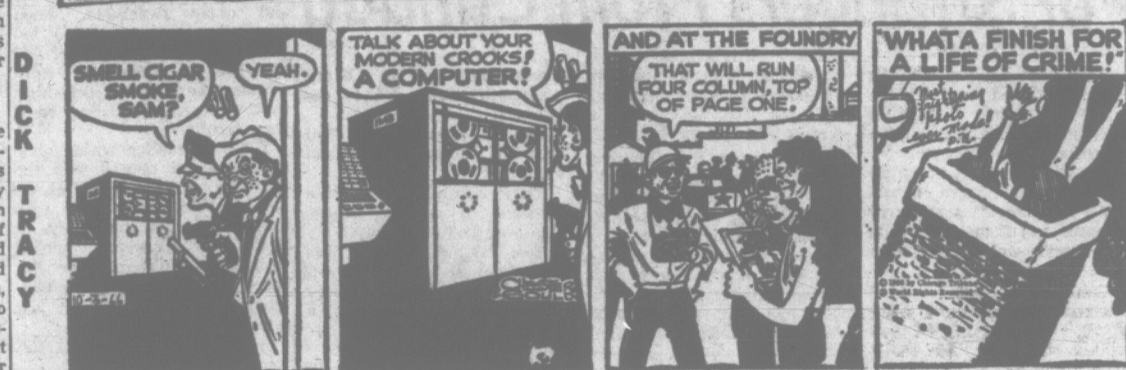

In fact, the many-sided science of matter and energy is behind every practical project in our modern world. It is the master science of the Age of Science. Its laws operate even in the miniature domain of atoms and molecules. And the nucleus of the mighty little atom confronted scientists with an entirely new concept of matter and energy.

Former scientists thought that the atom was the smallest, undividable particle of matter and that matter and energy were forever different. But the atom has been split apart, and its shattered nucleus proves that matter is but a frozen form of energy. This is the realm of nuclear physics. Nuclear physicists can rearrange the particles of the atom nucleus. Particles can be split from the nucleus, leaving a smaller atom of a different kind. Small atoms can be assembled into larger atoms.

Split Apart

The atomic nucleus is the tightest little fist in the universe. Its infinitesimal particles of matter are bound together by forces if nuclear energy. When the nucleus is charged, some of this energy is released and some of the matter is converted into energy. In nuclear fission, atoms are split apart into smaller atoms. In nuclear fusion, smaller atoms are built into larger atoms. Nuclear physicist suse countless atoms to release staggering quantities of nuclear energy.

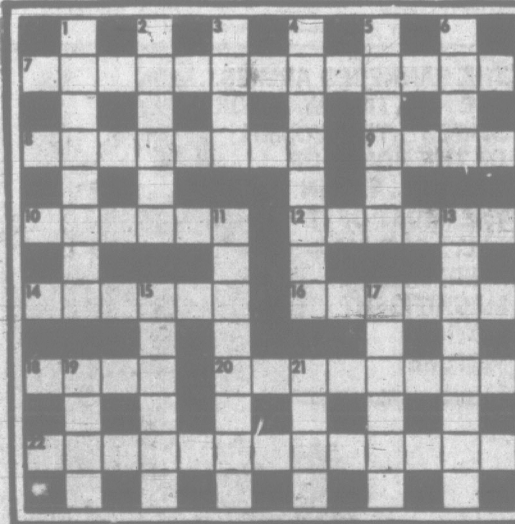

Some nuclear physicists specialize in astronomy. The stars are powerhouses of nuclear activity, and our sun performs nuclear fusion on a stupendous scale. Its small atoms of hydrogen fuse to form larger atoms of helium. Fragments of matter left over from the fusion process are converted into nuclear energy and released. The energy of an atomic bomb comes from nuclear fission in what atoms are split into smaller atoms. The energy of a hydrogen bomb comes from nuclear fusion, somewhat similar to the sustained nuclear activity of the sun.

SUNNY SKIES ahead are hoped for by five of seven local musicians, The Canadian Strangers as they left Victoria drizzle Saturday en route to try for fame and fortune in British music world. Sporting smiles and

From Now It's All Work For Strangers From Canada

They used to be just seven guys who liked music. When they got together to play, it was more like a jam session than work.

But it's a hobby no longer. "As of today, we're all full-time musicians," said Barry Casson, one of the seven-member Canadian Strangers who left at noon Saturday for England.

"And you know what's happening? A lot of other young Victoria groups are sitting back to see what happens to us."

"If we do well, they'll be packing up and leaving, too."

STARVE HERE

If they tried music-making as a full time occupation in Victoria, they would starve to death, he said.

"It's an all-out try. We want to make it in music."

They're all convinced they can, but it was on Barry's say-so they decided to make the break.

After a trip overseas last year, he added up pros and cons — "I'm convinced there is work for us over there."

Christmas is their deadline to find firm ground in the music world. That's when three wives are scheduled to join them.

After an initial round of visiting agents, the Strangers are hoping to get on a dance hall circuit in England, or on another that would lead them on a tour through Europe.

ONE NIGHT STANDS

"Or we could play the night clubs in and around London," said Barry. "But there it's not just one-night stands. There's no comparison to over here."

The group used to be known as Bobby Faulds and the Strangers, but "we might as well get used to it, we're a commercial enterprise now."

So renamed the Canadian Strangers, and sporting light blue blazers with maple leaf badges, they took the plunge.

"We've got a big band rhythm and blues sound, I guess you'd call it," Barry pondered. "It's hard to describe."

"We're pushing a sound with a strong beat and rhythm."

They stress the brass "instead of pushing guitars like everybody else does."

Two Strangers, Wes Chambers and Billy Stewart, were already in Vancouver Saturday, waiting to board a train east with the others.

HATES INTERVIEWS

Makes Up Questions Outside of Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producer-director-writer Billy Wilder, a man with a seeming distaste for interviews, is embarking on a personal appearance tour, on which he will be interviewed profusely.

Wilder viewed the prospect sourly in his Hollywood Studio office, where he was interviewed about his forthcoming interviews. That gave him no particular pleasure, either.

"I don't like it, but I'm going," said the film maker, who was booked for appearances in New Orleans, Chicago, New York and Europe. "I don't look forward to the onslaught of questions, which become so standardized that I reply by rote. The trouble is that when you get out of this town, the average interviewer doesn't know what to ask, and you end by making up your own questions."

The reason for Wilder's enforced travels is a film called The Fortune Cookie. It is another one of Wilder's acid views of mid-century America, concerning a shy lawyer (Walter Matthau) who cons his brother-in-law (Jack Lemmon) into faking an injury to win a settlement.

DISLIKES GREED Wilder has been on this anti-greed kick through The Apartment and Kiss Me, Stupid, said Wilder. He expressed irritation that the film had been mentioned and offered the advice of an old adage: "In the house of the hanged, one should not speak of rope."

He refused to admit that he had any particular points of view, caustic or otherwise, in his treatments of the American scene.

AT THE MOVIES

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING
Capitol Theatre

This delightful skit on U.S. war hysteria evoked shouts of mirth from young and old at Saturday afternoon's showing in the Odeon. I found the story a little tedious in places, but the finale is hilarious and well worth waiting for.

The setting is a picturesque island off the New England coast. In a rickety old house a New York writer (Carl Reiner) is breakfasting with his wife (Eva Marie Saint). They are on holiday and preparing to leave for home when their small son announces there are Russians in the yard.

There are indeed — the Russians are part of the crew of a submarine which grounded on a sand bar when the captain came too close.

The crew are really seeking help, but rumors of a Russian invasion flash all over the island and pandemonium develops. The Russians are really just as scared as the islanders, especially when local defence forces are mustered and Washington is alerted.

Alan Arkin, a cabaret singer and Broadway clown, makes a notable movie debut as Rozanov, the spokesman for the Russian sailors and leader of a scouting party which slips ashore to commandeer a motor launch.

After sabotaging the island's telephone exchange, the sailors break into a store and don western civilian clothes. Rozanov then coaches them in basic English so they can go round saying:

"This is an emergency — please to get from the street."

Arkin's behavior as Rozanov is a masterly blend of nervous caution, reluctant aggression and crazy sweetness. When translating a conversation between the local police chief and the Russian submarine commander, he has the desperate look of a man standing on a time bomb.

The conversation builds up to a suspenseful climax with the Russians and the Island Home Guard facing each other with loaded guns at the ready. It seems only a sneeze is needed to trigger a murderous war — but there is a novel interruption, exuberantly funny and with just a touch of pathos.

This is a movie, not only for children, but for all who believe in a corner of their hearts in good white magic, and who enjoy good tunes sung with joy and zest.

It is well worth reviving.

The shrine is being built on solid rock," said Mother Divine, who succeeded her husband as head of the multi-million-dollar biracial cult founded on the basis of communal living.

GUEST SUPERB

Symphony Gives Promising Start To New Season

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Once again, spurning all obstacles that appeared to loom at the end of last season, the Victoria Symphony Orchestra has stepped into the concert arena fully arrayed and vigorous.

The weekend series of concerts conducted by Otto-Werner Mueller, which conclude tonight at the Royal Theatre, have provided the 26th season with a promising, and in certain respects, memorable opening.

They are memorable principally because of the presence of lovely guest artist, Hugues Turangeau; in general because they are the best opening series of any past season that I can recall.

Absent regular orchestra personnel (away on a navy band tour) are replaced by leading Vancouver musicians in key positions.

QUALITY

There is inevitably a thinness in the ranks, especially noticeable in the Wagner Meister-singer Prelude, but Maestro Mueller rightly places quality ahead of sheer quantity.

His skilled musicianship in adjusting the whole range of his dynamics within the sections as well as in the overall pattern, results in what is certainly an acceptable, even if far from ideal, performance of the Wagner.

Little if any of the usual "opening concert" raggedness was in evidence.

Beethoven's Coriolan Overture was, if anything, too studied, too precise in execution; but this is hardly a fault to quibble with in the face of an alert, definitive interpretation that conveyed the rich drama of the piece.

The exquisite Chausson Poeme de l'Amour et de la Mer and the passionate De Falla suite, El Amor Brujo, are program peaks and not simply because they present the guest artist, but because in these numbers the orchestra also excels.

DRAMATIC FLAIR

The mezzo-soprano of Hugues Turangeau is a voice of superb beauty. Its quality is as rare as is her combination of personal charm, technical maturity, dramatic flair and intelligence.

Effortless in production, she sings with an effect of great naturalness, but this is truly the art that conceals art.

The warm, golden tone, used so subtly and with such moving lyrical effect in the Chausson, takes on a different character through color and texture changes in the De Falla.

One would not say that this was a big, powerful voice. It is far better than that, for it is so skillfully focused and its dynamic range is so diversified that it at all times, and vividly, communicates its intent.

BALANCE

The ephemeral, romantic qualities of Chausson's Poeme were developed in delicate color by the orchestra and in perfect balance with the solo voice.

Familiar and stirring, the Rigoletto Fire Dance in the De Falla, and a lovely lyrical section near the end of the suite, were most effectively played especially by the strings.

Solo oboe intervals were well performed by gifted, young Victoria oboist Ian Franklin.

HIGH SCHOOLS

New Exam Policy For B.C.

Students Given Choice On Tests To Be Written

High school students received good news today in a new provincial government examination policy announced by Education Minister Peterson.

Students will write government exams in subjects in which they have their greatest potential, Mr. Peterson told the British Columbia School Trustees' Association convention in Penticton.

Mr. Peterson said he hoped the new program "will fulfil the purpose of maintaining high standards at the senior secondary academic level."

Final examinations at the end of this school year will be written in the following Grade 12 subjects: French, Latin, German, Spanish, history, geography, English literature, mathematics, biology, chemistry and physics.

"Students therefore will be writing government examinations only in those subjects which they themselves have chosen as being those in which they have the greatest potential," he said.

"In all other courses in Grades 11 and 12 the mark awarded by the school will be accepted."

SPECIAL EXAMS

Scholarship students will write a special examination in two courses of their choice and scholarship awards will be made on the basis of these exams without reference to school marks, the minister said.

Schools accredited by the education department will still be able to recommend students in all subjects.

Mr. Peterson said the new examination policy "recognizes contentment of teachers that it is impossible to evaluate the factors of a student's work."

The minister said the policy, which will be reviewed each year, "also overcomes the criticism which has been advanced in previous years that an examination designed to determine whether a student is capable of receiving passing credit for a course is not necessarily designed to test the knowledge of scholarship students."

New School Construction May Be Halted

Tight money could bring deferral of capital school building projects, Education Minister Leslie Peterson warned from Penticton today.

Speaking to the annual meeting of B.C. School Trustees Association, Mr. Peterson said the current borrowing situation is "more serious than before because it is coupled with what could be disastrous inflationary trends."

But he said it was not the first storm the education department and school districts had weathered.

He referred back to a priority system by which capital school construction was carried out according to the money supply available.

CO-OPERATION

When it was necessary to do this before, the department had received "heartiest co-operation of all boards of school trustees, and I'm sure that in the present tight money situation we can expect to receive from you the same co-operation," Mr. Peterson said.

He said school construction could be carried out without benefit of government assistance, which presents no financing problem.

But if school districts choose to finance in "the normal way" with the provincial government paying from 50 to 90 per cent of the cost of projects and guaranteeing the balance in the form of borrowings, "then you may find that some of your capital programs will have to be deferred for the time being."

URGENT NEEDS

He said the department could consult with all school districts to ensure that urgent needs receive fair consideration.

"However, the construction of such desirable additions to the school plan as gymnasiums and activity rooms will have to be postponed for the immediate future," Mr. Peterson said.

The minister said capital programs were already affected by the nation-wide, tight money picture.

"How deeply it will affect both the current operating and capital expenditures of all school districts is difficult to forecast at this time," he said.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the largest single wheat field in Canada?—C.F.P.
A. A check with Department of Agriculture bulletins doesn't give a firm answer; however it is noted that the largest single wheat field ever sown anywhere in the world was one of 35,000 acres near Kethbridge in 1951.

Q. Do the Japanese have a fish like our salmon?—E.T.

A. Yes. The masu salmon (Oncorhynchus masou), much like our coho salmon, occurs in the Asian side of the North Pacific, none ever having been found in North American waters. For the most part they are fished in coastal waters. It is estimated that the annual catch is about 3,000 metric tons.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve "constructive or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Work to Start On Installation Of Soot Catchers

Work starts next week on the installation of the first of three new collectors for B.C. Forest Products boilers.

It will spell the end of the long aggravating smoke hazard by the end of the year.

Herbert Barnes, manager of the Gorge Road plant, told the Victoria pollution committee today the only thing that could delay the schedule was Premier W. A. C. Bennett's ban on overtime.

But he hoped the first of the collectors designed to eliminate soot fall-out would be in action by mid-November with the other two in use by the end of December.

"We are just as anxious as the city to see the collectors installed," he said.

Cost of the project to end Victoria's worst smoke pollution problem has been estimated at $131,000.

City smoke inspector Sam Mottishaw told the committee the city is as pure as it could get prior to the "advent of natural gas."

Pollution fall-out in the city area is down to six tons per square mile as compared with 14 tons per square mile in Vancouver.

Mr. Mottishaw made the statement after he was asked what overall progress was being made in smoke control.

"Outside-of-steamships (and the soon to be controlled B.C. Forest Products), the city is suffering little from smoke," he said.

30% LOWER

"About all we can do now is wait for the advent of natural gas."

Fall-out from industrial plants is 30 per cent lower than last year and 38 per cent lower than 1964.

Mr. Mottishaw said the two major trouble spots in the city were at Gorge and Garibaldi Roads and Toimie and Douglas.

Funds Found For Lights At New Park

The city has raised enough money from land tax sales and other sources to install lights in the new Royal Athletic Park.

City officials were still keeping silent on the subject this morning, but one spokesman said the lights "would definitely be in" before the now-being-rebuilt park was officially opened.

In July city manager Dennis Young said there was every hope that the extra $84,000 required for the floodlighting would be available before the project was completed.

The rebuilding job costing an estimated $650,000 was started in mid-summer with a September deadline for completion.

A two-month contractors' lock-out stalled the work and the deadline for opening is now uncertain.

"But," said the city hall official, "there is no doubt now that the lights will be included in the present contract. The park will be completed as we had originally hoped."

Failure to promise to install the lights touched off a minor furor among the city's sporting fraternity when the original contract was let.

Thief Busy While Woman Shopping

Thieves robbed an unlocked Esquimalt house Saturday while its occupant was out shopping.

Mrs. A. P. Patrick, 1262 Woodway, said today she was only out of her house about an hour.

She returned to find four radios, a record player, three cameras, an electric razor and other minor items missing. The loss was estimated at about $390.

Mrs. Patrick said the lid of a deep freeze unit had also been pried open but she was unable to say if any food had been taken.

A small amount of silver and a few packages of cigarettes were stolen when Lake Hill Texaco, 4008 Quadra, was broken into overnight Sunday. The cigarette machine was smashed open.

TENDERS CALLED

Old Wooden Ferries Head for Retirement

Four old wooden-hulled ferries are being retired by B.C. Ferry Authority as new steel-hulled ships take over more coast services.

They are 165-foot St. Smokwa, 185-foot Jervis Queen, 116-foot Cy Peck and 100-foot G. S. Pearson, the latter three all motor vessels.

Tenders for purchase of the ships will be received up to 2 p.m. Oct. 18 at the ferry authority offices, Wharf Street.

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the vessels are still serviceable as ferries, or they may be converted for use by the fishing or logging industries as camp ships or power suppliers.

Bids will be accepted up to 2 p.m. Nov. 15. Processing requires about a month before a contract could be awarded and construction takes about a year.

It is expected the new ship could come into service for the 1968 season.

For the last two summers peak cross-gulf traffic has been handled by five ships giving hourly service between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

Girl Badly Hurt In Saanich Crash; 12 Others Injured

One girl is in only fair condition in hospital and 12 other people required hospital treatment following six major traffic accidents over the weekend.

Marlene Dahl, 18, of 1756 Gonzales, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries in a single car crash on the West Saanich Road early Sunday which injured four people.

Police said a car driven by Richard Neil, 20, of 1421 Beatty St. was southbound on the West Saanich Road about 2 a.m. when it went out of control near Hartland, sheared off a utility pole and snapped five small trees before stopping at the bottom of a 20-foot embankment.

The driver was treated for a cut lip. Two other passengers, John Rupp, 20, of 3118 Irma and Linda MacDonald, 19, of 2646 Victor suffered minor head injuries.

Arthur Plewman, 78, of 240 Douglas and his wife, Anna, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital following a two-car crash on the Patricia Bay Highway at Sayward Road Sunday about 5 p.m.

The Plewman car was northbound on the highway when it was in collision with a southbound auto turning left onto Sayward and driven by George Swan, 31, of 2570 Victor. Damage was estimated at $1,100.

Mr. Plewman received rib injuries in the crash and his wife bruises to her arm and knee.

Colorful Decorations Add Magic to Bazaar

Take plastic detergent bottles, a bit of gold paint, blue sparkles and presto! You have a magic decor formula, which the Ladies' Auxiliary to Britannia Branch No. 7, Royal Canadian Legion, discovered for its annual bazaar, Saturday.

Unique candle holders in gold with blue candles were fashioned in that manner. A centerpiece of similar-toned dogwood flowers and the candle holders were the focal point of the head table for the luncheon in the morning and afternoon. Figures of dogs and dolls, made in the same way by Mrs.

M. Stratton, centred each of the guest tables which were covered with alternating blue and gold covers, the legion colors. Each little figure was different.

Mrs. D. Campbell, wife of Hon. Dan Campbell, minister of municipalities, opened the affair. Invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kane, Mrs. M. Woodward, auxiliary zone representative, and Mrs. D. Brothers.

President Mrs. D. Smith and convener of the bazaar, Mrs. G. Aitchison, welcomed guests. Mrs. D. McCulloch was co-convener.

A tea, convened by Mrs. S. J. Mayzes, followed in the afternoon. Looking after tea tables and keeping things on an even keel in the kitchen were Mrs. N. Pelan, Mrs. A. Ahlers, Mrs. B. Selridge, Mrs. K. Tipler, Mrs. H. Pendray, Mrs. J. O'Connor, Mrs. D. Fraser, Mrs. M. Mitchell, Mrs. I. Young, Mrs. V. Lamb and Mrs. I. Littlefair.

It was hard to decide which stall to visit first. A booth of woollens ranging from complete baby sets to caps and stockings, all made by the members, was convened by Mrs. L. E. Stidston, Mrs. D. Shubrook and Mrs. A. Holroyd.

Embroidered pillow slips, tablecloths, crocheted covers and many other items at the fancywork table kept conveners Mrs. H. F. Jarvis, Mrs. C. Hutton, Mrs. W. Hadfield, Mrs. E. Hayes and Mrs. E. Elliott busy completing orders.

In charge of other stalls were: Aprons, Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. R. Johnson; home cooking, Mrs. F. C. Quinn, Mrs. R. Seymour, Mrs. M. L. Guyatt and Mrs. I. Alexander; white elephant, Mrs. M. Stratton, Mrs. A. Syrett and Mrs. A. Jones; plants and flowers, Mrs. M. Rodseth and Mrs. H. Newton; grocery raffle, the Misses Josephine and Margot Maybey; tombola, Mrs. P. Percival, Mrs. W. D. Stewart, Mrs. M. Wood and Muriel Stewart; table decoration, Mrs. W. A. Stewart, and penny bar, Mrs. M. Kendrew and Mrs. G. W. Wallis.

In charge of receipts, which totalled $800, were Mrs. C. Forgues and Miss E. Rhodes.

GIRL GUIDES

Bowker District—Guide commissioner Mrs. V. Smith presided when the first Guiders' meeting of the season for the Bowker District was held in the Oak Bay Firemen's Hall. She told Guiders that Miss Jenny Sewell, who had earned her gold cord during her time with the district, would receive her award in the near future. Mrs. Smith asked for more Guide and Brownie leaders to deal with the greatly-increased number of applicants. She said that three Victoria companies had already been chosen to attend the Heritage Camp in July of next year. The 28th Lansdowne Guide Company, 35th Company and 50th Victoria Brownie Pack were welcomed to the district. It was announced that Mrs. B. FitzPatrick would assume leadership of the Second Victoria Company of Land Rangers. It was reported that a building permit had been approved for a new Guide hall and that an enlargement was planned for the Pandora Avenue hall. Local Guides were advised to plan for the Centennial rally, to be held on the University of Victoria's campus on May 16, 1967. Brown Owl Mrs. C. Singleton demonstrated a novel way of teaching the international aspects of the movement.

Holy Water From France

USED IN SERVICE

Holy water, sent from the French city of Lourdes by a friend of the bride, was used at the service in Sacred Heart Church, Saturday evening, which saw Fr. J. Planeta join in marriage Karen Lynn Mons and Richard Henry Milkowski.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mons, 1129 Greenwood Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Milkowski, 919 Market Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white organza, styled with an empire-line bodice of crystalline lace and elbow-length sleeves.

LACE APPLIQUES

The A-line skirt was appliqued in the same lace and complemented with a detachable waltz train that extended from a bridal bow at the back. The silk illusion veil misted to cathedral length from a headpiece of crystallized stephanotis. Stephanotis, white roses and trailing ivy formed the cascade bouquet.

Full-length gowns of rainbow-toned chiffon over shocking pink taffeta were the choice of matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon Kennedy; bridesmaids, the Misses Barbara Mons and Sheila Corfield and junior bridesmaid, Irene Milkowski. They wore matching headpieces and carried cascade bouquets of white carnations and ivy.

Gordon Kennedy was best man and ushering guests were Delmar Hall, Walt Ryan and Randy Dow.

WHITE AND PINK

White carnations decorated the bride's table at the reception, held at Chez Marcel. The three-tier wedding cake was topped with pink carnations.

Clair Cliff proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

For her going-away outfit, the bride chose a light blue wool dressmaker suit, navy blue accessories and hat of smoked blue tulle and feathers. A pink gardenia completed the picture.

After a honeymoon in California, the newlyweds will make their home at 450 Simcoe Street.

Meeting Tonight Aims to Form Overture Concert Association

DUNCAN — A meeting in Duncan tonight will try to organize a local branch of the Overture Concert Association.

The campaign will be launched in the Commercial Hotel by George Zukerman, executive director of the national association. Local president is Jens Wolfe and the aim is for a presubscribed membership of 500.

Attractions already lined up for the 1966-67 season are leading Canadian bass-baritone Jans Rubes; concert pianist Ronald Turin; and the Cantalina Trio (piano, violin and cello from the New York Symphony Orchestra).

Overture Concerts, with headquarters in Vancouver, is a co-operative affiliation of nearly 70 western Canadian communities.

Associations already exist in Nanaimo, Courtenay and Port Alberni.

Mrs. Jens Wolfe is Duncan area campaign manager.

She said individual membership will be $8 a year, with $20 family memberships and half rate for students and old-age pensioners.

Tonight's meeting will be preceded by a folk singing concert presented by Lake Cowichan schoolteacher Jimmy Johnstone and Harry Aoki.

Chemainus Horsemen Win 18-Event Saanichton Show

Six hard-riding members of Chemainus Western Horsemen Club galloped home with the top prize from a Vancouver Island Inter-club horse show Sunday at Saanichton Fair Grounds.

The show was organized by Colwood Trail Riders who won the team aggregate last year. Chemainus will stage next year's show.

Five clubs took part and there were many individual entries as well as competing for special awards. Perfect weather prevailed as judge A. W. (Bud) Mesher of Victoria went through the difficult task of adjudicating classes each with as many as 32 entries.

The 18-event show started at 10 a.m. and the last contest was completed at about 7:15 p.m. A fair-sized crowd was on hand.

Chemainus had a lot of vocal support in the stands and when the announcement came that the team aggregate honors had gone to them, there were howls of delight.

SPECIAL TROPHY

Not only did the up-island club win the Colist Rose Bowl team award, but one of its members took a special trophy presented for the first time this year for champion all-round saddle horse.

The trophy and a $25 cash prize was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Mesher, long-time supporters of "things equestrian" and was awarded on the basis of points compiled in six designated events.

The winner was Raymond Nichols with his fast-stepping horse, Tommy Dickson. It was a popular win.

Commodore Presents Prizes

The end of summer sailings was marked Saturday by presentation of prizes at the Royal Canadian Naval Sailing Association.

The prizes were presented by Commodore Dick Sharpe during the association's annual fall ball. Winners were: Pacific Laboratory trophy: 1 Dave Messham, Black Hawk; 2 Rolly Hill, White Swan.

Royal Channel Islands Trophy: 1 Rolly Hill; 2 Fred Douglas, Black Hawk.

Frank Heaton Trophy: 1 Rudy Kirmshe, Green Teal; 2 Rolly Hill.

Cole Cup Rolly Hill: Rudy Kirmshe.

Thompson Trophy: 1 Dave Messham; 2 Bill Thompson, Silver Heron.

Crew Trophy: 1 Margaret Holt, Silver Heron; 2 Jim Edwards, Red Star.

Service Dinghies: 1 Dennis Turnbull; 2 Peter Robbins.

Thirty-six certificates of competency were also awarded.

MOONLIGHTING CRACKDOWN SUGGESTED

NANAIMO — President Alastair Macleod of the Nanaimo Labor Council says Premier Bennett didn't go far enough in his no-overtime announcement.

Macleod said the premier should have included a one-man-for-one-job clause, with severe penalties for moonlighting.

The Nanaimo labor leader said efficiency for any other job drops considerably after a man has worked an eight-hour shift.

"Men should work no more than 40 hours a week," Macleod said, "and penalties should be imposed on any worker holding two jobs."

80 Laid Off By Leading Nanaimo Firm

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island logging equipment suppliers are feeling the pinch of the tight situation in wood products exports.

A Nanaimo company, S. Madill Ltd., laid off 80 employees "as a safety measure because our sales are far below our production," said Chuck Madill.

"It has actually forced many small logging companies out of business and even the large companies are hesitating on their equipment orders," he said.

Mr. Madill said he hoped the layoffs were temporary, but local speculation was that it would be at least Christmas before production resumes.

A local log scaler said one small company was advised to beach its logs because the mill would not accept them.

By DON DINGWALL
LADYSMITH — School-boy hiker William Jackson, 16, is missing in logging country west of Ladysmith.

A member of Nanaimo Rambler Hiking Club, he went out on his own Sunday and failed to arrive home at night.

Members of Ladysmith Search and Rescue Squad travelled the logging roads on Second Mountain Sunday night but found no trace of him.

Today the searchers were going to tackle the mountain bush country.

"BIT CONCERNED" This morning the boy's mother, Mrs. Stephen Jackson, Victoria Crescent, said: "I'm just beginning to be a bit concerned although William has always wanted to go out hiking on his own."

"I think he has just mistimed things and it got dark a little earlier than he figured. He has camped out before but this time he did not have any camping gear with him."

"He is a conscientious boy and would not do this deliberately."

William just went hiking and was not carrying a gun.

His father, an employee of Crown Zellerbach into whose territory the boy hiked, joined the search party.

Building Up At Nanaimo

NANAIMO — Building figures for September show an increase of nearly $100,000 over the same month in 1965.

A total of 35 permits valued at $146,570 were issued last month, including one for a $60,000 apartment building.

Sergeant's Residence To Become Courtroom

DUNCAN — The sergeant's living quarters at Duncan RCMP detachment will become a courtroom.

The present courtroom section of the building will be adapted as offices.

These changes were announced at the weekend by Victoria RCMP headquarters. The local detachment offices were built in 1946 when the RCMP strength was five police officers.

Today the establishment is 17 officers, and there have been continual complaints about overcrowding in the courtroom, the waiting room and the police quarters.

The sergeant is moving into private housing, and probation officer Stan Mounsey is hoping to get improved accommodation for the family and children's court.

Meantime no word is forthcoming about completion of the shell of the provincial courthouse. The second phase will cost an estimated $325,000.

Planner Wanted

ALBERNI — The Alberni-Clayoquot regional district board has decided to seek a change in its letters patent to allow for hiring of a planner who would also be responsible for zoning and building regulations.

V.I. GROUP TO FIGHT POLLUTION

PORT ALBERNI — Pollution fighters meeting here Sunday formed a Vancouver Island Central Committee on Pollution.

The committee, composed of representatives from Port Alberni, Campbell River, Nanaimo and Victoria, will hold its first official meeting Oct. 26 to choose a leader.

The duties of the committee members will be to organize separate pollution protests in each area.

Members are George Hendrickson of the Gorge Waterway Improvement Association; George McKnight, a Port Alberni protester; Aid. Ted Barsby of Nanaimo; Morris Corbett of the Port Alberni Labor Council and Coun. Kenneth O. B. Forde of Campbell River.

Sunday's meeting of 58 persons condemned the provincial government for permitting mining in the Butte Lake area.

"In the past we have been assured there would be no road, no mining and no dumping of mine tailings into Butte Lake," said Coun. Forde.

"But gradually we found all of these things were being granted by the provincial government."

"It's time we did something to stop this desecration of our parks and halt pollution on Vancouver Island," said Mr. Forde.

Another general meeting of pollution fighters will be held Thursday in Campbell River in the junior high school beginning at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile the lawyer for the Greater Campbell River Water Board, Anthony Sarich, today was to ask for an injunction to stop dumping of mine tailings in Butte Lake.

The application was to be made in Vancouver.

The water board is hoping the injunction will prevent dumping until the legality of the Pollution Control Board's decision to allow it is decided by Supreme Court.

Province-Wide Tieup Urged by Big Union

A call for a one-day general strike in B.C. "or some other form of job action" was made Sunday by the biggest union local in the province.

The move came one day after the biggest union in B.C. urged "job action" to protest the jailing of four union leaders last Friday for criminal contempt of court.

Both moves will be discussed by about 400 delegates to the 110,000-member B.C. Federation of Labour convention in Vancouver which starts four weeks from today.

Last November, the province came within 12 hours of a two-day general strike which was called off after government intervention settled the oil workers dispute.

The 7,000-member Vancouver local of the International Woodworkers of America passed a resolution at a regular membership meeting Sunday calling for a one-day work stoppage.

The words "general strike" were not used, as was the case last fall in the oil dispute.

RESOLUTION
Key part of the resolution reads: "Therefore be it resolved—That this local union (Vancouver Local 1-217, IWA) go on record as being in favor of a one-day general work stoppage or some other form of job action to protest the jailing of these workers and the use of injunctions in labor disputes."

The resolution also asked the B.C. Federation of Labour to organize the protest and that the resolution go before the federation convention.

Bob Clair, acting president of the Vancouver local, said the federation was being asked to make sure all labor is involved and not just the IWA.

On Saturday, the regional convention of the International Woodworkers of America passed an emergency resolution favoring "job action to protest the jailing of these workers and the use of injunctions in labor disputes."

The regional convention resolution had called for a "one-day general work stoppage."

CHARGE WORDS
The resolution asked the B.C. Federation of Labour to organize the protest.

This was changed to "job action" by the resolutions committee in order, a spokesman said, to give the B.C. Federation of Labour more flexibility in deciding the form and timing of the protest.

The emergency resolution was sponsored by the Victoria, Duncan-Nanaimo and Vancouver locals of the IWA.

The IWA, with about 30,000 members in B.C. including 17,000 on southern Vancouver Island, represents one-quarter of the membership of affiliates of the B.C. Federation of Labour.

Last year, the union sent 60-odd delegates to the federation convention.

A spokesman for the B.C. Federation of Labour confirmed both resolutions will go before the convention in Vancouver, from Oct. 31 to Nov. 4.

Last Friday, four union officials were sent to jail and 15 others were fined a total of $3,100 for contempt of court for disobeying a court injunction during demonstrations last May outside the Burnaby plant of Lenkurt Electric.

The demonstrations followed a walkout by 257 electrical workers protesting a company decision on overtime.

Two of the four men in jail are members of the IWA. They are Freddy Neale, secretary of the Vancouver and District Labour Council, and Tom Clarke, a vice-president of the IWA's Vancouver local.

They both received six-month sentences while Art O'Keefe, former business agent of Local 213 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, was sentenced to four months and Jeff Power, president of the Marine Workers and Boiler Makers Industrial Union, got three months.

The sentences are being appealed by lawyers for the men, who were among hundreds of demonstrators last May. The others were not arrested.

All the Lenkurt strikers were fired when they walked out last April 25 but some were later rehired.

Mr. Clair said Vancouver local members felt a stiffer resolution was needed than the "job action" one approved by the regional convention.

And regional president Jack Moore said as long as unionists are in jail organized labor in B.C. will create "difficulties" for both government and management.

"Labor is quite capable of making things hot," he said.

In Victoria, local IWA president Murray Drew—one of the sponsors of the regional convention resolution—said unionists have "by and large" always believed in law and order and have in most cases been law-abiding.

"But the way ex-parte injunctions are being issued and used by the judiciary of this province is making a mockery of our democracy and judiciary system and it must be changed for it is bad," he said today.

"When a judge is allowed to issue injunctions without hearing both arguments then it must be bad."

"I wouldn't say there is one law for the rich and one for the poor but rather a different interpretation of the law as it applies to the rich and the poor."

He recalled that the judge last Friday quoted from an American jurist "and Lord knows United States justice is no shining example of virtue."

Mr. Drew said injunctions should be wiped out and other officials noted that they are almost unknown in labor-management disputes in both the United States and the United Kingdom.

"If not, then it is up to the working people of B.C. to put all the pressures that can be exerted on the present government and in so doing force the issue," said Mr. Drew.

In a statement, the B.C. Federation of Labour said the jailing mark the start of "a gigantic campaign to end once and for all the use of injunctions in labor disputes."

"We are the only country that has not recognized that there is no room for court injunctions in labor disputes within a free society."

Shoplifter Wore Shoes In Getaway

A woman who walked from The Bay Thursday night wearing shoes she had taken from a counter pleaded guilty to theft when she appeared in central court Friday.

Mrs. Marjorie Michael, 501 Gorge Road East, had her case remanded to Oct. 7 for sentence and preparation of a psychiatric report.

A store detective told the court he watched while Mrs. Michael shoplifted the shoes, a sweater, a shirt and two pairs of nylons, putting the goods and her old shoes in a bag.

"I understand there's a long history of alcohol here," said prosecutor John Macintyre.

POLICEMEN escort man and woman from Dorset Gardens Methodist Church at Brighton, Sunday, after demonstrators shouted down Prime Minister Harold Wilson as he mounted the pulpit to read

Plane Crash Kills 18: Probers Seeking Clues

LEADER of a Japanese mission Aichihiro Fujiyama is met at Vancouver airport today by Trade Minister Robert Winters. Fujiyama is minister of state and director-general of economic planning. The mission is in on its way to Ottawa for Canada-Japan talks. Mr. Winters carried on to Victoria, where he will speak tonight to a meeting of the Air Industries Association, in the Empress Hotel. PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons aboard.

The West Coast Airlines DC-9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 17 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

THOUGHT HE WAS HIGHER
The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet. He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope. That meant it crashed, but at the 4,000-foot level instead of the 12,000 or 9,000 he was supposed to be.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC-9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest. Thirteen passengers were killed, five crew members. The plane has a seating capacity of 75.

SOVIET UNION has told the U.S. it will soon release peace negotiator Thomas R. Dewey, who has been in custody since Sept. 11 when border guards arrested him as he waded across a small stream on the border between Russia and Iran near Baku.

Denis Trial Postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — The second trial of Raymond Denis was postponed today until February.

The 33-year-old Denis, former executive assistant to the federal immigration minister, is charged with unlawfully and corruptly offering a sum of money to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne to induce the latter not to oppose bail for narcotics trafficker Lucien Rivard in July 1964.

The first trial ended in a declared mistrial March 30.

PROTEST ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

Angry Unionists Jeer at Wilson

Party Meeting Opens at Resort

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, looking angry and flustered, was jeered, booed and shouted down outside his Labor Party annual conference today by militant automotive workers protesting the government's economic squeeze that has thrown thousands out of jobs.

THREATENED

Bodyguard Bolstered For Parley

BRIGHTON (Reuters) — Unprecedented security measures were in effect today for Prime Minister Wilson as the annual conference of his ruling Labor party opened here.

Wilson's seaford hotel was ringed by 200 police, 70 of them guarding the entrance shoulder-to-shoulder, and the prime minister's personal bodyguard was bolstered to 10 from two.

Earlier, well-informed sources said there was an anonymous warning of an attack on Wilson, but police refused to comment on this report. But sources said the guard was strengthened before the warning, following a recent fire in a hotel room close to Wilson's suite in Liverpool.

A rowdy demonstration by leftist students broke out Sunday during a church service in which Wilson was prevented from reading a passage in the Bible.

Wilson sat down after a carefully organized demonstration erupted with shouts of "hypocrite," "murderer" and "Viet Nam."

Police dragged and carried away 25 students while some members of the congregation angrily yanked at the hair of girls being hauled out of the church.

Later in the afternoon, marchers chanting slogans and carrying banners paraded past Wilson's hotel protesting against growing unemployment and Viet Nam.

LADYSMITH — A 15-year-old student, missing since Sunday, walked safe and sound out of the woods that held him overnight, near noon today.

HELD UP HANDS

After 45 minutes of noise and chanting, Wilson appeared suddenly on the steps surrounded by security men. His appearance touched off a new uproar of booing and catcalling. Wilson looked flustered and held up his hands for silence, but was ignored by the demonstrators.

He then grabbed a bullhorn from one of the demonstration leaders and appealed repeatedly for quiet, helped by some of the leaders of the workers. Finally he succeeded in making himself heard enough to say he would see a small delegation. He then went back into the hotel with three of the workers' leaders to hear their protests.

The demonstrations marked the beginning of a showdown week during which Wilson also faced bitter revolts on the conference floor aimed primarily against the Labor government's prices-and-incomes policies and its support for the United States in Viet Nam.

MAJOR ADDRESS

Wilson himself was scheduled to deliver a major policy address to the conference Tuesday morning. In it he was expected to deal not only with the economic crisis but also with government policy on Viet Nam, Rhodesia and defence east of Suez.

L.A. 8-5 FAVORITES TO WIN WORLD SERIES

NEW YORK (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers were made 8-to-5 favorites today to beat Baltimore Orioles in the world series starting Wednesday.

If Don Drysdale pitches the opening game, the Dodgers will be 7-to-5 favorites for that game against any Baltimore pitcher. See details Page 12.)

AT U.S. PACKING PLANT

Non-Strikers Stoned by Mob

HARLAN, Iowa (UPI) — A mob of strikers invaded a packing plant today and drove non-striking workers from the building with bricks, rocks and gunfire, police said.

At least four persons suffered minor injuries in the clash between 80 and 90 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA) and the non-striking workers at the western Iowa Pork Co. plant.

The violence subsided after Judge Bennett Cullison, who had issued an order restricting the number of pickets at the strike-bound plant, arrived on the scene.

Elvin Troll, president of the UPWA Local 1225, said the violence was triggered by the arrival Sunday night of 17 Mexican workers.

"I had our people under control until then, but I couldn't control them after that," he said.

Plant manager Ed Hannan said the workers of Mexican descent were from Los Angeles and were "in a training program to help them develop skills."

WALL ST. SLUGGED

Wall Street's Dow Jones index of 30 blue chip industrial stocks fell 16.37 points near the close of trading today to rest at 757.55.

It was one of the largest drops in the past three years.

An early morning rally was quickly wiped out and by noon the index was down 12 points. Then it slid another four points in 30 minutes. (See page 10.)

Political Violence Erupts in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — A state of emergency was declared here today following a fresh outbreak of political violence, including the bombing of a theatre which injured 13 persons.

The homemade bomb, thrown into the theatre Sunday night, followed a violent weekend of unrest in Kingston's troubled west end and adjoining areas.

A man had been killed earlier Sunday after he opened fire on police. He was shot by police and then run over by their jeep.

The military joined police today to control the area where political violence has so far resulted in six deaths and scores of injuries. Guns, knives and homemade bombs have all been used.

In announcing the state of emergency in a nationwide broadcast today, Home Affairs Minister Roy McNeill said it followed consultations with Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante and Governor-General Sir Clifford Campbell to "end this wave of lawlessness."

IBOS FLEEING NORTHERN NIGERIA

Tribal Jealousies Climax in Blood Bath

LAGOS — Tribal violence in northern Nigeria during the last four or five days is estimated to have cost at least 1,000 lives, reliable sources said today.

The disturbances were so widespread that it was difficult to get accurate figures, but some sources here predicted the final toll would be even higher.

Main victims were members of the Ibo tribe from southeastern Nigeria, living and working in the Moslem Hausa north. Gangs of Hausas, including murderous troops, hunted down and killed the Ibos because of long-festering tribal suspicions and jealousies.

Today the north was generally quiet, though some looting was reported in Kano, one of the main centres of the troubles.

Mutinous troops there have returned to barracks. A great airlift was organized to fly Ibos to safety out of the northern towns. Already 1,500 have been brought out by charter planes and Nigerian Airways and 1,000 more were expected to be flown out in the next 24 hours.

Reports reaching Lagos indicated more than 300 Ibos were slain in Kano by northern soldiers and civilians Saturday night. About 100 of them were killed as they tried to board an airliner to flee the city.

Army troops were moved into Kano from the northern capital, Kaduna, to stop the massacre. The city was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew. The outbreak at Kano was one of several attacks against the Ibos in the last week. Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, governor of the eastern region, has estimated 3,000 Ibos have been slain.

Reports to Lagos indicated the fighting began at Kano International Airport when northern soldiers apparently fired on a group of Ibo refugees waiting to board a plane for Lagos.

A mob of civilians joined the soldiers and the crowd swept through nearby Sabon Gari, a section that formerly housed thousands of easterners. They also attacked Ibos waiting at the railway station.

The deep-seated hostility between the Ibos and Hausas results from both economic and military rivalries. The largely Moslem Hausa northerners accuse the Ibos of economic domination. The Ibos, generally better educated than the northerners, migrated from their region and took skilled jobs in the north.

The northerners also were angered at a coup led mostly by eastern officers last January in which Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, a northerner, was killed. An easterner, Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, took power.

Eastern tribesmen believe they were targets for revenge in a July 29 coup which overthrew Aguiyi-Ironsi. Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, a northerner, took over.

The Gowon regime currently is overseeing the drafting of a new constitution in Lagos, but some officials feel the northern-eastern rivalry may wreck the constitutional assembly and break Nigeria up into regional areas.

An estimated 60,000 Ibos have fled their homes in the north in the last two months, most of them following riots in May and August. Their departure has crippled transportation, electricity, food distribution and telephone service, all activities dominated by Ibo workers.

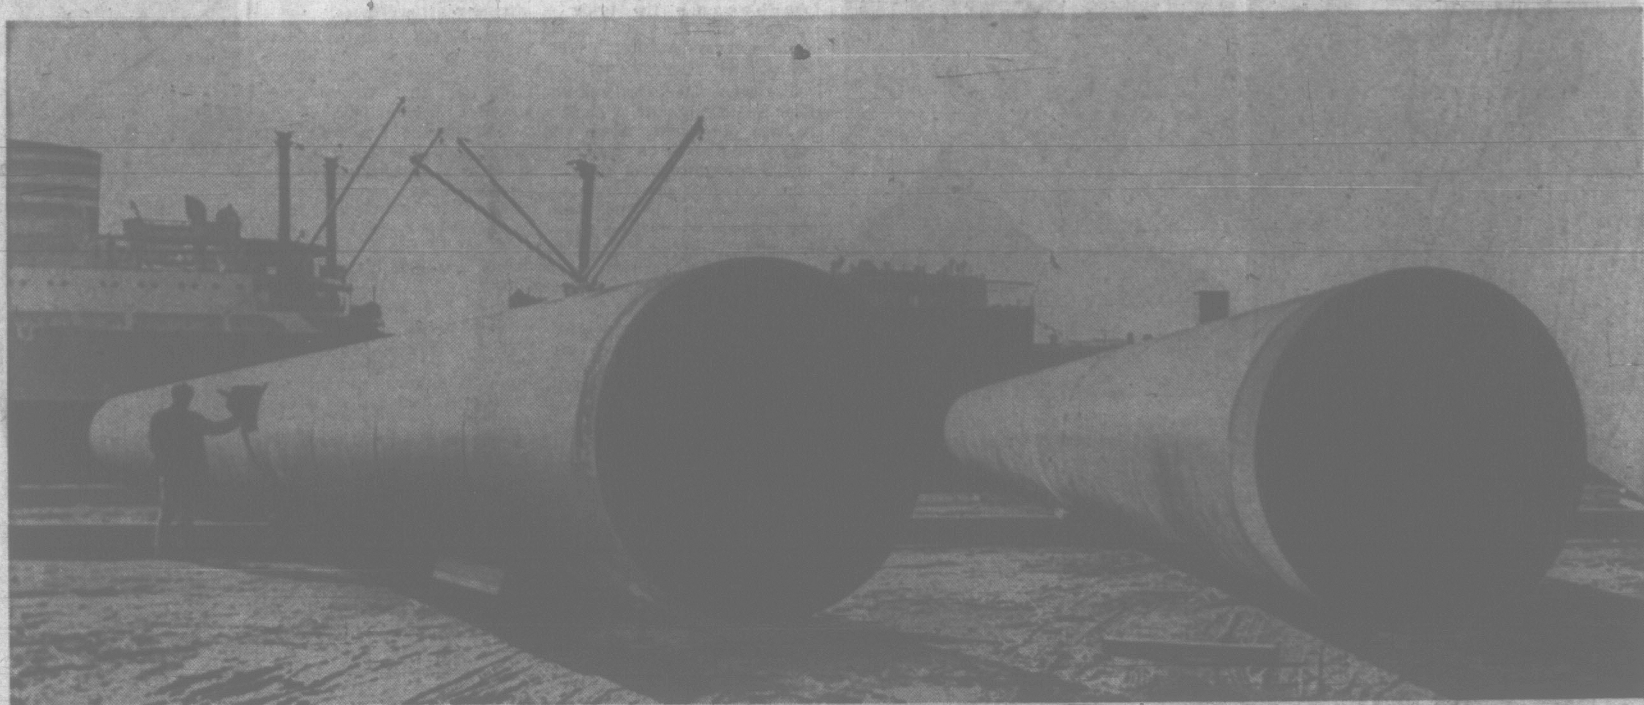

Th' whole economic hassle in Britain jus' proves them patients don't like medicine.

Bet miniskirts were invented by a shoe salesman.

Work to Start On Installation Of Soot Catchers

Work starts next week on the installation of the first of three new collectors for B.C. Forest Products boilers.

It will spell the end of the long aggravating smoke hazard by the end of the year.

Herbert Barnes, manager of the Gorge Road plant, told the Victoria pollution committee today the only thing that could delay the schedule was Premier W. A. C. Bennett's ban on overtime.

But he hoped the first of the collectors designed to eliminate soot fall-out would be in action by mid-November with the other two in use by the end of December.

"We are just as anxious as the city to see the collectors installed," he said.

Cost of the project to end Victoria's worst smoke pollution problem has been estimated at $131,000.

City smoke inspector Sam Mottishaw told the committee the city is as pure as it could get prior to the "advent of natural gas."

Pollution fall-out in the city area is down to six tons per square mile as compared with 14 tons per square mile in Vancouver.

Mr. Mottishaw made the statement after he was asked what overall progress was being made in smoke control.

"Outside of steamships (and the soon to be controlled B.C. Forest Products), the city is suffering little from smoke," he said.

30% LOWER
"About all we can do now is wait for the advent of natural gas."

Fall-out from industrial plants is 30 per cent lower than last year and 38 per cent lower than 1964.

Mr. Mottishaw said the two major trouble spots in the city were at Gorge and Garbally Roads and Toimie and Douglas.

Funds Found For Lights At New Park

The city has raised enough money from land tax sales and other sources to install lights in the new Royal Athletic Park.

City officials were still keeping silent on the subject this morning, but one spokesman said the lights "would definitely be in" before the new being rebuilt park was officially opened.

In July city manager Dennis Young said there was every hope that the extra $84,000 required for the floodlighting would be available before the project was completed.

The rebuilding job costing an estimated $650,000 was started in mid-summer with a September deadline for completion.

A two-month contractors' lock-out stalled the work and the deadline for opening is now uncertain.

"But," said the city hall official, "there is no doubt now that the lights will be included in the present contract. The park will be completed as we had originally hoped."

Failure to promise to install the lights touched off a minor furor among the city's sporting fraternity when the original contract was left.

There was a real lesson to be learned from seeing someone's house burn down.

Thief Busy While Woman Shopping

Thieves robbed an unlocked Esquimalt house Saturday while its occupant was out shopping.

Mrs. A. P. Patrick, 1263 Woodway, said today she was only out of her house about an hour.

She returned to find four radios, a record player, three cameras, an electric razor and other minor items missing. The loss was estimated at about $200.

Mrs. Patrick said the lid of a deep freeze unit had also been pried open but she was unable to say if any food had been taken.

A small amount of silver and a few packages of cigarettes were stolen when Lake Hill Texaco, 4006 Quadra, was broken into overnight Sunday. The cigarette machine was smashed open.

TENDERS CALLED

Old Wooden Ferries Head for Retirement

Four old wooden-hulled ferries are being retired by B.C. Ferry Authority as new steel-hulled ships take over more coast services.

They are 165-foot St. Smolwa, 158-foot Jervis Queen, 116-foot Cy Peck and 100-foot G. S. Pearson, the latter three all motor vessels.

Tenders for purchase of the ships will be received up to 2 p.m. Oct. 18 at the ferry authority offices, Wharf Street.

B.C. Ferries general manager Monty Aldous said the vessels are still serviceable as ferries, or they may be converted for use by the fishing or logging industries as camp ships or power suppliers.

The new Mayne Queen replaced Pender Queen for stand-by purposes, thus allowing one of the older ships to be retired.

Bowen Queen replaces Smolwa and Powell River Queen replaces Jervis Queen.

Meanwhile, the ferry authority is calling for tenders for construction of a new cross-Gulf ferry, Queen of Burnaby, a 342-foot vessel that will augment the Swartz Bay-Tsawwassen or Departure Bay-Horseshoe Bay services.

Bids will be accepted up to 2 p.m. Nov. 15. Processing requires about a month before a contract could be awarded and construction takes about a year.

It is expected the new ship could come into service for the 1968 season.

For the last two summers peak cross-Gulf traffic has been handled by five ships giving hourly service between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen.

Girl Badly Hurt In Saanich Crash; 12 Others Injured

One girl is in only fair condition in hospital and 12 other people required hospital treatment following six major traffic accidents over the week-end.

Marlene Dahl, 18, of 1756 Gonzales, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital with head injuries in a single car crash on the West Saanich Road early Sunday which injured four people.

Police said a car driven by Richard Neil, 20, of 1421 Beatty St. was southbound on the West Saanich Road about 2 a.m. when it went out of control near Hartland, sheared off a utility pole and snapped five small trees before stopping at the bottom of a 20-foot embankment.

The driver was treated for a cut lip. Two other passengers, John Rippon, 20, of 3113 Irma and Linda MacDonald, 19, of 2646 Victor suffered minor head injuries.

Astley Plewman, 79, of 240 Douglas and his wife, Anna, were treated at St. Joseph's Hospital following a two-car crash on the Patricia Bay Highway at Sayward Road Sunday about 5 p.m.

$1,100 DAMAGE
The Plewman car was northbound on the highway when it was in collision with a southbound auto turning left onto Sayward and driven by George Swan, 81, of 2570 Victor. Damage was estimated at $1,100.

Mr. Plewman received rib injuries in the crash and his wife bruises to her arm and knee.

Clyde Banfield, 614 Vancouver St., suffered face and knee injuries Saturday night when his car went out of control on Collinson and rammed a hydro pole near Rupert Street.

Mrs. Marilyn Lane, 909 Bank and her two children, Ruth, 10, and Julie, 7, were treated for shock at Royal Jubilee Hospital on Saturday night after the Lane auto was in collision with another car at Oak Bay Avenue and Bank Street.

Police said the Lane car was eastbound on Oak Bay and turning left on to Bank when the accident with the westbound car, driven by Mervin Nelson, 2579 Cook, occurred.

BRUISED RIBS
A two-car collision at Bay and Rose Streets a short time later resulted in John Fushon, 50, of 3975 Cedarwood being treated for bruised ribs.

His auto collided with a car westbound on Bay driven by Frank Carlrow, 1731 Newton. A passenger, Mrs. Grace Morgan, 3804 Quadra, was treated for minor leg injuries.

One passenger was injured Sunday about 7 p.m. in a two-car collision at the Trans-Canada Highway and Douglas Street.

Roberto Peterson, 18, of 821 Esquimalt Rd., was released from St. Joseph's Hospital after treatment for head injuries.

She was riding in a car driven by Leslie Robertson, 18, of 5690 Old West Rd. which was headed east across Douglas when it was struck by a northbound car operated by William Marmix, 7791 Malcolm Rd. Damage was about $1,000.

HE GUMMED THE WORKS
Nothing's sacred!

George Brooks, 2633 Wark St., told city police early Sunday he put his false teeth on a shelf after going into the washroom of Government St. beer parlor.

Another man entered the room, grabbed the 325 teeth and ran off.

Brooks described the denture thief as about 21, wearing a green shirt and black trousers.

Driver Given His Chance And Muffed It
Stopped for impaired driving Sunday morning Lawrence Johnson persuaded the police to let him walk home scot free.

They agreed and watched him amble off.

Ten minutes later the car was gone.

A quick check located Johnson, of 570 Yates Street, back in his car heading home.

He "got tired walking" he told the arresting officers.

Dr. McNeven confirmed the officers' opinion that Johnson was indeed under the influence and a charge was laid.

In central court today Johnson pleaded guilty and was fined $400. He was permitted to continue as a truck driver if he gave up the registration to his car and confined his driving to his work.

Eight autos on a downtown used car lot were damaged early Saturday when vandals smashed them into each other. Damage was estimated at $800 to the cars, parked on the View Street lot of Empress Motors Ltd., 900 Fort.

feet in diameter, they will be slotted into 9-foot floating bases this December. Meanwhile, workmen will attach horizontal girders and part of the rig's platform on site of grain elevator wharf.

Nine Groups Back Appeals For Centres

Nine Victoria organizations today supported an appeal for help in establishing district centres of Victoria Silver Threads Service.

In a brief to the federal and B.C. governments and the municipal governments of Greater Victoria, the Silver Threads executive said the new centres are needed because of serious overcrowding at the main centre at 4 Centennial Square.

The brief has been endorsed by Victoria Welfare Council, Victoria Labor Council, B.C. Hydro Retired Employees Association, Twilight Homes, Gorge View (United Church) Society, Parkdale Senior Citizens Association, Metchoin Old Age Pensioners, St. Luke's 50-Up Club and Brentwood Old Age Pensioners.

"We sent copies of the brief to all interested groups," said Mrs. Catherine Horne, executive director of Victoria Silver Threads Centre.

The brief asked Greater Victoria municipalities to assume the cost of maintaining and servicing district centres and appealed to the federal and B.C. governments for financial support. Membership at the main centre has grown from 1,600 to 4,400 in the past year.

HIGH SCHOOLS

New Exam Policy For B.C.

Students Given Choice On Tests To Be Written

High school students received good news today in a new provincial government examination policy announced by Education Minister Peterson.

Students will write government exams in subjects in which they have their greatest potential, Mr. Peterson told the British Columbia School Trustees' Association convention in Penticton.

Mr. Peterson said he hoped the new program "will fulfil the purpose of maintaining high standards at the senior secondary academic level."

Final examinations at the end of this school year will be written in the following Grade 12 subjects: French, Latin, German, Spanish, history, geography, English literature, mathematics, biology, chemistry and physics.

"Students therefore will be writing government examinations only in those subjects which they themselves have chosen as being those in which they have the greatest potential," he said.

"In all other courses in Grades 11 and 12 the mark awarded by the school will be accepted."

Scholarship students will write a special examination in two courses of their choice and scholarship awards will be made on the basis of these exams without reference to school marks, the minister said.

Schools accredited by the education department will still be able to recommend students in all subjects.

Mr. Peterson said the new examination policy "recognizes contention of teachers that it is impossible to evaluate on a written examination all the factors of a student's work."

The minister said the policy, which will be reviewed each year, "also overcomes the criticism which has been advanced in previous years that an examination designed to determine whether a student is capable of receiving passing credit for a course is not necessarily designed to test the knowledge of scholarship students."

When it was necessary to do this before, the department had received "heartiest co-operation of all boards of school trustees, and I'm sure that in the present tight money situation we can expect to receive from them the same co-operation," Mr. Peterson said.

He said school construction could be carried out without benefit of government assistance, which presents no financing problem.

But if school districts choose to finance in "the normal way" with the provincial government paying from 50 to 90 per cent of the cost of projects and guaranteeing the balance in the form of borrowings, "then you may find that some of your capital programs will have to be deferred for the time being."

He said the department could consult with all school districts to ensure that urgent needs receive fair consideration.

"However, the construction of such desirable additions to the school plan as gymnasiums and activity rooms will have to be postponed for the immediate future," Mr. Peterson said.

The minister said capital programs were already affected by the nation-wide, tight money picture.

"How deeply it will affect both the current operating and capital expenditures of all school districts is difficult to forecast at this time," he said.

Ask The Times
Q. What is the largest single wheat field in Canada?—C.F.P.

A. A check with Department of Agriculture bulletins doesn't give a firm answer; however it is noted that the largest single wheat field ever sown anywhere in the world was one of 35,000 acres near Lethbridge in 1951.

Q. Do the Japanese have a fish like our salmon?—E.T.

A. Yes. The masu salmon (Oncorhynchus masou), much like our coho salmon, occurs in the Asian side of the North Pacific, some even having been found in North American waters. For the most part they are fished in coastal waters. It is estimated that the annual catch is about 3,000 metric tons.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

LEGENDARY UNICORN tusk could be the answer to this strange object. In fact it's a "tooth" from the giant Arctic Narwhale. The "tooth" was given to Captain John Strand, skipper of the icebreaker Camels, by Franklin Bay Eskimos, shortly before he returned to Victoria after three months on northern ice-breaking duty. Seen examining the six-foot "nasher" is chief engineer Henry Brett (left) who missed the northern trip for the first time in seven years, and ship's ice observer, Bob Bourbonnais. Eskimos say the tusk is used by the whale to stir up food off the ocean bottom. Others believe it is used to break through ice. The Camels returned Sunday with 11,200 miles recorded on her log.

PROTEST ECONOMIC SQUEEZE

Angry Unionists Jeer at Wilson

Party Meeting Opens at Resort

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, looking angry and flustered, was jeered, booed and shouted down outside his Labor Party annual conference today by militant automotive workers protesting the government's economic squeeze that has thrown thousands out of jobs.

THREATENED

Bodyguard Bolstered For Parley

BRIGHTON (Reuters) — Unprecedented security measures were in effect today for Prime Minister Wilson as the annual conference of his ruling Labor party opened here.

Wilson's seaford hotel was ringed by 200 police, 70 of them guarding the entrance shoulder-to-shoulder, and the prime minister's personal bodyguard was bolstered to 10 from two.

Earlier, well-informed sources said there was an anonymous warning of an attack on Wilson, but police refused to comment on this report. But sources said the guard was strengthened before the warning, following a recent fire in a hotel room close to Wilson's suite in Liverpool.

A rowdy demonstration by leftist students broke out Sunday during a church service in which Wilson was prevented from reading a passage in the Bible.

Wilson sat down after a carefully organized demonstration erupted with shouts of "hypocrite," "murderer" and "Viet Nam."

Police dragged and carried away 25 students while some members of the congregation angrily yanked at the hair of girls being hauled out of the church.

Later in the afternoon, marchers chanting slogans and carrying banners paraded past Wilson's hotel protesting against growing unemployment and Viet Nam.

Denis Trial Postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — The second trial of Raymond Denis, was postponed today until February.

The 33-year-old Denis, former executive assistant to the federal immigration minister, is charged with unlawfully and corruptly offering a sum of money to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne to induce the latter not to oppose bail for narcotics trafficker Lucien Rivard in July, 1964.

The first trial ended in a declared mistrial March 30.

Bahamian Isles Awaiting Storm

(See Story Page 3)

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, still a killer after nine wild days over tropic seas, roared today up an Atlantic Ocean alley between the famed resort cities of Miami and the Bahamian capital of Nassau.

Dead ahead of the storm lay great Abaco Island and other

Bahamian isles which often have heard the howl of the hurricane. Inez, had slowed to a crawl, a development that often portends a change in direction. But forecasters predicted she would continue north-northeast.

Inez jabbed at the south Florida "gold coast" and sent a tornado spiralling into Nassau that killed a 16-month-old child.

AT U.S. PACKING PLANT

Non-Strikers Stoned by Mob

HARLAN, Iowa (UPI) — A mob of strikers invaded a packing plant today and drove non-striking workers from the building with bricks, rocks and gunfire, police said.

At least four persons suffered minor injuries in the clash, between 80 and 90 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA) and the non-striking workers at the western Iowa Pork Co. plant.

The violence subsided after Judge Bennett Callison, who had issued an order restricting the number of pickets at the strike-bound plant, arrived on the scene.

Elvin Troll, president of the UPWA Local 1225, said the violence was triggered by the arrival Sunday night of 17 Mexican workers.

"I had our people under control until then, but I couldn't control them after that," he said.

Plant manager Ed Hannan said the workers of Mexican descent were from Los Angeles and were "in a training program to help them develop skills."

WALL ST. SLUGGED

Wall Street's Dow Jones index of 30 blue chip industrial stocks fell 16.57 points near the close of trading today to rest at 757.95.

It was one of the largest drops in the past three years. An early morning rally was quickly wiped out and by noon the index was down 12 points. Then it slid another four points in 30 minutes. (See page 18.)

Plane Crash Kills 18: Probers Seeking Clues

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)

—Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons aboard.

The West Coast Airlines DC-9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 17 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

THOUGHT HE WAS HIGHER

The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet. He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope. That meant it crashed, but at the 4,000-foot level instead of the 12,000 or 9,000 he was supposed to be.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC-9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest. Thirteen passengers were killed, five crew members. The plane has a seating capacity of 75.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, still a killer after nine wild days over tropic seas, roared today up an Atlantic Ocean alley between the famed resort cities of Miami and the Bahamian capital of Nassau.

Dead ahead of the storm lay great Abaco Island and other

Bahamian isles which often have heard the howl of the hurricane. Inez, had slowed to a crawl, a development that often portends a change in direction. But forecasters predicted she would continue north-northeast.

Inez jabbed at the south Florida "gold coast" and sent a tornado spiralling into Nassau that killed a 16-month-old child.

Political Violence Erupts in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — A state of emergency was declared here today following a fresh outbreak of political violence, including the bombing of a theatre which injured 13 persons.

The homemade bomb, thrown into the theatre Sunday night, followed a violent weekend of unrest in Kingston's troubled west end and adjoining areas.

A man had been killed earlier Sunday after he opened fire on police. He was shot by police and then run over by their jeep.

The military joined police today to control the area where political violence has so far resulted in six deaths and scores of injuries. Guns, knives and homemade bombs have all been used.

In announcing the state of emergency in a nationwide broadcast today, Home Affairs Minister Roy McNeill said it followed consultations with Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante and Governor-General Sir Clifford Campbell to "end this wave of lawlessness."

IBOS FLEEING NORTHERN NIGERIA

Times News Services
LAGOS — Tribal violence in northern Nigeria during the last four or five days is estimated to have cost at least 1,000 lives, reliable sources said today.

The disturbances were so widespread that it was difficult to get accurate figures, but some sources here predicted the final toll would be even higher.

Main victims were members of the Ibo tribe from southeastern Nigeria, living and working in the Moslem Hausa north.

Gangs of Hausas, including murderous troops, hunted down and killed the Ibos because of long-festering tribal suspicions and jealousies.

Today the north was generally quiet, though some looting was reported in Kano, one of the main centres of the troubles.

Mutinous troops there have returned to barracks.

A great airlift was organized to fly Ibos to safety out of the northern towns. Already 1,500 have been brought out by charter planes and Nigerian Airways, and 1,000 more were expected to be flown out in the next 24 hours.

Reports reaching Lagos indicated more than 300 Ibos were slain in Kano by northern soldiers and civilians Saturday night. About 100 of them were killed as they tried to board an airliner to flee the city.

Army troops were moved into Kano from the northern capital, Kaduna, to stop the massacre. The city was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

The outbreak at Kano was one of several attacks against the Ibos in the last week. Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, governor of the eastern region, has estimated 3,000 Ibos have been slain.

Reports to Lagos indicated the fighting began at Kano International Airport when northern soldiers apparently fired on a group of Ibo refugees waiting to board a plane for Lagos.

A mob of civilians joined the soldiers and the crowd swept through nearby Sabon Gari, a section that formerly housed thousands of easterners. They also attacked Ibos waiting at the railway station.

The deep-seated hostility between the Ibos and Hausas results from both economic and military rivalries. The largely Moslem Hausa northerners accuse the Ibos of economic domination. The Ibos, generally better educated than the northerners, migrated from their region and took skilled jobs in the north.

The northerners also were angered at a coup led mostly by eastern officers last January in which Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, a northerner, was killed. An easterner, Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, took power.

Eastern tribesmen believe they were targets for revenge in a July 29 coup which overthrew Aguiyi-Ironsi. Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, a northerner, took over.

The Gowon regime currently is overseeing the drafting of a new constitution in Lagos, but some officials feel the northern-eastern rivalry may wreck the constitutional assembly and break Nigeria up into regional areas.

An estimated 60,000 Ibos have fled their homes in the north in the last two months, most of them following riots in May and August. Their departure has crippled transportation, electricity, food distribution and telephone service, all activities dominated by Ibo workers.

U.K. Workers Jeer Wilson

Strike Clash
Hurts 4

HARLAN, Iowa (UPI) — A mob of strikers invaded a packing plant today and drove non-striking workers from the building with bricks, rocks and gunfire, police said.

At least four persons suffered minor injuries in the clash between 80 and 90 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (UPWA) and the non-striking workers at the western Iowa Pork Co. plant.

The violence subsided after Judge Bennett Cullison, who had issued an order restricting the number of pickets at the strike-bound plant, arrived on the scene.

Elvin Troll, president of the UPWA Local 1225, said the violence was triggered by the arrival Sunday night of 17 Mexican workers.

"I had our people under control until then, but I couldn't control them after that," he said.

Plant manager Ed Hannan said the workers of Mexican descent were from Los Angeles and were "in a training program to help them develop skills."

Sheriff's officers said three of the Mexican workers were injured when strikers overturned five mobile trailer homes parked alongside the plant.

Hannan said the strikers charged into the plant grounds and smashed windows with bricks, rocks and chunks of concrete.

Party Meeting
Opens at Resort

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson, looking angry and flustered, was jeered, booed and shouted down outside his Labor Party annual conference today by militant automotive workers protesting the government's economic squeeze that has thrown thousands out of jobs.

For Parley

BRIGHTON (Reuters) — Unprecedented security measures were in effect today for Prime Minister Wilson as the annual conference of his ruling Labor party opened here.

Wilson's seafront hotel was ringed by 200 police, 70 of them guarding the entrance shoulder-to-shoulder, and the prime minister's personal bodyguard was bolstered to 10 from two.

Earlier, well-informed sources said there was an anonymous warning of an attack on Wilson, but police refused to comment on this report. But sources said the guard was strengthened before the warning, following a recent fire in a hotel room close to Wilson's suite in Liverpool.

A rowdy demonstration by leftist students broke out Sunday during a church service in which Wilson was prevented from reading a passage in the Bible.

Wilson sat down after a carefully organized demonstration erupted with shouts of "hypocrite," "murderer" and "Viet Nam."

Police dragged and carried away 25 students while some members of the congregation angrily yanked at the hair of girls being hauled out of the church.

Later in the afternoon, marchers chanting slogans and carrying banners paraded past Wilson's hotel protesting against growing unemployment and Viet Nam.

Wild Inez Approaching Nassau

(See Story Page 3)
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Inez, still a killer after nine wild days over tropic seas, roared today up an Atlantic Ocean alley between the famed resort cities of Miami and the Bahamian capital of Nassau.

Dead ahead of the storm lay great Abaco Island and other Bahamian isles which often have heard the howl of the hurricane.

Inez, had slowed to a crawl, a development that often portends a change in direction. But forecasters predicted she would continue north-northeast.

Inez jabbed at the south Florida "gold coast" and sent a tornado spiraling into Nassau that killed a 16-month-old child.

REGINA (CP) — X-rays taken of quarterback Ron Lancaster's injured ankle showed "nothing" an dit was believed to be nothing more than a sprain, Sandy Archer, trainer for the Saskatchewan Roughriders, said today.

Archer said the ankle was put in a cast for "a couple of days" and probably would be removed temporarily for a check Tuesday.

$2,000 Robbery

EDMONTON (CP) — A lone bandit escaped with between $2,000 and $3,000 in a robbery at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at 905 118th Avenue.

A witness said the man approached a teller and demanded money in $10 and $20 bills. He kept his hand in his pocket, stimulating a gun.

Denis Trial
Postponed

OTTAWA (CP) — The second trial of Raymond Denis was postponed today until February.

The 33-year-old Denis, former executive assistant to the federal immigration minister, is charged with unlawfully and corruptly offering a sum of money to Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne to induce the latter not to oppose bail for narcotics trafficker Lucien Rivard in July, 1964.

The first trial ended in a declared mistrial March 30.

Plane Crash Kills 18:
Probers Seeking Clues

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Dozens of investigators hunted for clues today in the mountain ravine into which an airliner crashed, killing all 18 persons aboard.

The West Coast Airlines DC-9 went down Saturday night in the rugged terrain about 30 miles southeast of Portland.

It took 17 hours to find the wreckage and another three hours to find a way to it. Only a helicopter could get in, landing in a mountain meadow a quarter-mile from the crash.

The impact came as the jet descended the western slope of the Cascade range.

The plane almost made it. It was down to the 4,000-foot level, and if it had not been for a 4,200-foot ridge, the plane could have glided into Portland airport on a flight from Eugene, Ore., 100 miles to the south.

THOUGHT HE WAS HIGHER

The first question for crash investigators is why the pilot, who was flying on instruments, apparently thought he was higher than 4,200 feet.

Officials said he reported he was 10 minutes out of Portland. Ground control gave him permission to drop from 14,000 feet.

He was asked to report when he got to 12,000 feet, and in no case to go below 9,000 feet without reporting.

At that point the radar controller said the plane disappeared from the radar scope. That meant it crashed, but at the 4,000-foot level instead of the 12,000 or 9,000 he was supposed to be.

Not only was it the first crash of a DC-9, but it also was the first crash to take the lives of passengers in the 20-year history of the airline, which is a feeder route operating principally in the Pacific Northwest. Thirteen passengers were killed, five crew members. The plane has a seating capacity of 75.

SOVIET UNION has told the U.S. it will soon release peace copman Thomas R. Dawson, who has been in custody since Sept. 11 when border guards arrested him as he waded across a small stream on the border between Russia and Iran near Baku.

It was one of the largest drops in the past three years.

An early morning rally was quickly wiped out and by noon the index was down 12 points. Then it slid another four points in 30 minutes. (See page 10.)

Political Violence
Erupts in Jamaica

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — A state of emergency was declared here today following a fresh outbreak of political violence, including the bombing of a theatre which injured 13 persons.

The homemade bomb, thrown into the theatre Sunday night, followed a violent weekend of unrest in Kingston's troubled west end and adjoining areas.

A man had been killed earlier Sunday after he opened fire on police. He was shot by police and then run over by their jeep.

The military joined police today to control the area where political violence has so far resulted in six deaths and scores of injuries. Guns, knives and homemade bombs have all been used.

In announcing the state of emergency in a nationwide broadcast today, Home Affairs Minister Roy McNeill said it followed consultations with Prime Minister Sir Alexander Bustamante and Governor-General Sir Clifford Campbell to "end this wave of lawlessness."

LAGOS — Tribal violence in northern Nigeria during the last four or five days is estimated to have cost at least 1,000 lives, reliable sources said today.

The disturbances were so widespread that it was difficult to get accurate figures, but some sources here predicted the final toll would be even higher.

Main victims were members of the Ibo tribe from southeastern Nigeria, living and working in the Moslem Hausa north. Gangs of Hausas, including mutinous troops, hunted down and killed the Ibos because of long-festering tribal suspicions and jealousies.

Today the north was generally quiet, though some looting was reported in Kano, one of the main centres of the troubles.

Mutinous troops there have returned to barracks.

A great airlift was organized to fly Ibos to safety out of the northern towns. Already 1,500 have been brought out by charter planes and Nigerian Airways and 1,000 more were expected to be flown out in the next 24 hours.

Reports reaching Lagos indicated more than 300 Ibos were slain in Kano by northern soldiers and civilians Saturday night. About 100 of them were killed as they tried to board an airliner to flee the city.

Army troops were moved into Kano from the northern capital, Kaduna, to stop the massacre. The city was put under a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

The outbreak at Kano was one of several attacks against the Ibos in the last week. Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, governor of the eastern region, has estimated 3,000 Ibos have been slain.

Reports to Lagos indicated the fighting began at Kano International Airport when northern soldiers apparently fired on a group of Ibo refugees waiting to board a plane for Lagos.

A mob of civilians joined the soldiers and the crowd swept through nearby Sabon Gari, a section that formerly housed thousands of easterners. They also attacked Ibos waiting at the railway station.

The deep-seated hostility between the Ibos and Hausas results from both economic and military rivalries. The largely Moslem Hausa northerners accuse the Ibos of economic domination. The Ibos, generally better educated than the northerners, migrated from their region and took skilled jobs in the north.

The northerners also were angered at a coup led mostly by eastern officers last January in which Prime Minister Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, a northerner, was killed. An easterner, Maj. Gen. Johnson Aguiyi-Ironsi, took power.

Eastern tribesmen believe they were targets for revenge in a July 29 coup which overthrew Aguiyi-Ironsi. Lt. Col. Yakubu Gowon, a northerner, took over.

The Gowon regime currently is overseeing the drafting of a new constitution in Lagos, but some officials feel the northern-eastern rivalry may wreck the constitutional assembly and break Nigeria up into regional areas.

An estimated 60,000 Ibos have fled their homes in the north in the last two months, most of them following riots in May and August. Their departure has crippled transportation, electricity, food distribution and telephone service, all activities dominated by Ibo workers.
